In S-C Cafeteria November 8--

Daniel Blount to Talk At Chamber Dinner

Daniel R. Blount of St. Louis will be the speaker at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet to be held Nov. 8 at 6:45 p.m. at the Smith-Cotton High School cafeteria.

Blount is a forceful and convincing speaker and his messages are driven home with a sincerity that captivates, yet his ability at telling stories adds much humor to his talks. He is intensely interested in civic and community welfare and is in constant demand as a speaker before service clubs, chambers of commerce, business and professional men's and women's groups and schools over a wide area. However, his first interest is in men and their development, and he gains his greatest satisfaction from working with them and their problems. He is an eternal optimist, who has the happy faculty of being able to inspire and challenge the best in men and women.

For more than 30 years Blount has been associated with the International Shoe Co., and most of his time during recent years has been spent in industrial and public relations work.

All of the 600 tickets to the banquet have been sold. The capacity seating of the Smith-Cotton High School cafeteria is 600, so

Lake Michigan Water Won't Help River

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Col. George E. White Jr., the Army's district engineer, says increased diversion of the water from Lake Michigan won't keep the Mississippi River from dropping in the St. Louis area.

The increased diversion, from 900 to 2,500 cubic feet per second, was announced yesterday by Brig. Gen. Paul D. Berrigan, north central division engineer. It was expected to increase the water level in the Alton, Ill., lock about 2½ inches by Friday or Saturday.

White said the increase would be more than nullified by continued drought.

Traffic on the Mississippi has been bottlenecked at Alton in recent weeks by low water.

The increased diversion began Tuesday and will continue for about 10 days. The water is being diverted into the Illinois River at Chicago.

Gomulka Revises Program

He Seeks to Erect New Communistic Structure in Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Wladyslaw Gomulka, Poland's new Communist party boss, worked today to erect a structure of independent Communism in the wake of a political revolt against Moscow domination.

Official broadcast said Gomulka and the Politburo of the Polish Communist party had assumed "leadership of the working classes and the entire nation to overcome the mistakes and blunders of the past."

One broadcast said a program would be submitted to the party's central committee Sunday for improvement of economic conditions and the participation of youth in the government.

It promised to lift the "fetters of secrecy" from party affairs, and pledged a free election of party officials. A party resolution condemned antisemitism.

Gomulka and other leading members of the Politburo plan to fly to Moscow soon to talk over differences between Polish and Soviet Communist leaders.

A Moscow broadcast today reported the speech of Gomulka to a mass meeting last night. But it left out Gomulka's statement that he had received assurances from Nikita Khrushchev, Soviet party boss, that Soviet troops in Poland would be returned to their regular bases within 48 hours.

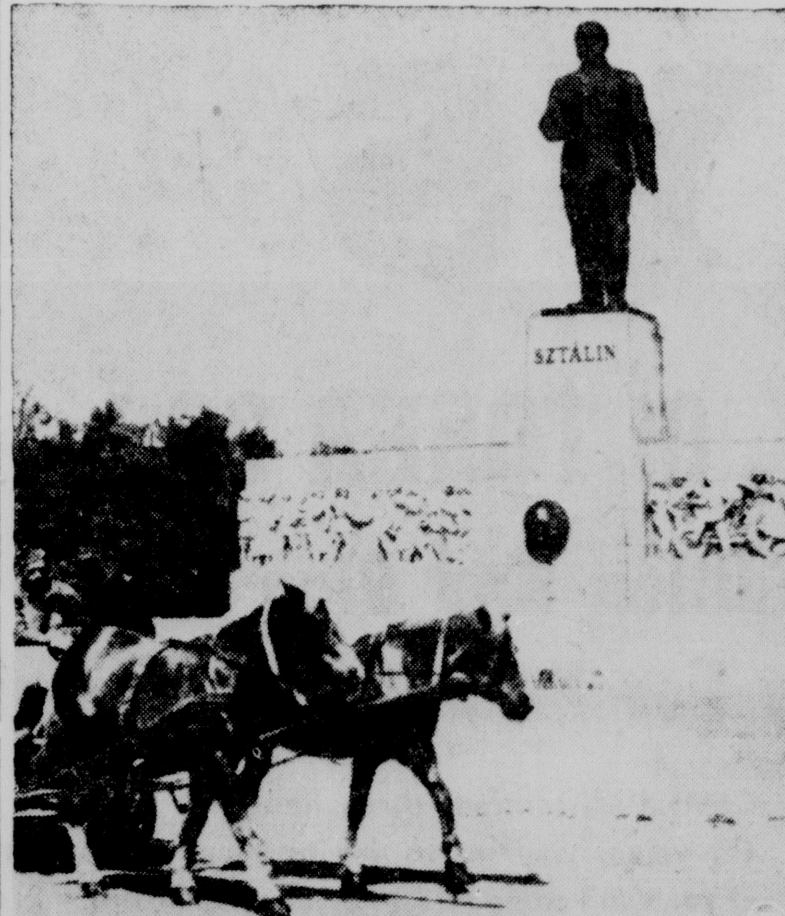

Gomulka's statement was the first official confirmation of threatening Soviet troop movements during the political crisis here. Broadcasts quoted Polish reporters throughout the provinces as saying "Soviet army units have either already withdrawn to their bases, or are in the course of doing so."

Life in Poland seemed to be returning to normal. Last night some young Poles ignored Gomulka's appeals for order and engaged in anti-Soviet demonstrations in sympathy for Hungarian rebels. Warsaw's radio said workers had rushed in trucks from the suburbs to discourage these "hooligan outbursts."

In his speech yesterday to a crowd of 250,000 Gomulka made it clear Soviet troops would remain in Poland as long as there are NATO bases in West Germany—a statement that was received in silence by the crowd.

He was cheered loudly when he declared Poland was in charge of its own decisions—including whether Soviet officers will remain with the Polish army.

Hungarian Revolt Began Here

TRY TO FELL STATUE—This massive, 26-foot-high statue of Stalin in Budapest's Stalin Square, shown as it appeared two years ago, was the prime target of demonstrators as thousands of Hungarians demanded the ouster of Russian troops from their country. Fighting broke out in the streets of the city as demonstrators in overall tried to topple the huge monument with acetylene torches, shouting that the statue was a symbol of tyranny. (NEA Telephoto)

Nationally Known Race Driver--

Smith-Cotton Students Receive Safe Driving Tips From Expert

Students at the Smith-Cotton High School received safe driving tips from an expert Thursday when Johnnie Parsons, nationally known race driver and the "500" winner at the Indianapolis Speedway in 1950, when he appeared before the general assembly.

Parsons appearance at the high school assembly is part of an educational highway safety program being sponsored by the Champion Spark Plug Co., Toledo, O., in support of the accident prevention campaign of the National Safety Council. Arrangements for the local program at Smith-Cotton were made by the Johns Auto Supply, Inc.

Parsons has been associated with racing for 16 years, starting in midpoints on the West Coast in 1940. Two years later he was the midwest champion. He began campaigning in the Midwest in 1947 and a year later was again midwest champion. His first Indianapolis race was in 1949 and he finished second. Following his victory in 1950, he was forced out of four succeeding races by mechanical difficulties. This year, he finished fourth and was leading the race from time to time at midpoint.

In addition to competing in championship cars, Parsons has been racing stock cars throughout the country the past two years.

He is a member of the exclusive Champion 100-Mile-an-Hour Club and has met its requirements three times by finishing the entire 500-mile Indianapolis race without relief at average speeds of more than 100 miles an hour.

The program Parsons presented here has been given in more than 100 high schools in ten states by fellow drivers and has received the enthusiastic endorsement of educational, civic and law enforcement officials.

He points out that for the most part teen-agers can become excellent drivers because of their fast reflexes and superior physical condition. In addition, they have the advantages of better cars, better highways and better traffic controls, which were not available to parents.

Part of his day here was given over to checking visually the cars of any students who request it. Parsons maintains that highway safety begins with the safety of the automobile and says that a visual inspection may disclose defects which, if not remedied, could lead to a serious accident. He also appeared at the driver training classes and presented a racing film.

Decide Closing Hours--

Retail Merchants Set Date For the Christmas Parade

A meeting of the retail merchants was held Thursday at 10:30 a.m. in the assembly room of the courthouse, at which time it was decided to have the Christmas parade this year on Saturday, Dec. 1. Ed Kehde is again chairman of the parade and the starting hour will be announced later.

The meeting was presided over by Harry Naugel, director of the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce, and a report on the recent meeting of the committee on store hours was given by Al Zuercher, Jr., general chairman of the retail committee.

The plan for the Christmas closing hours as presented by Zuercher was accepted by the merchants present. The plan follows: the stores will be open on Monday night, Dec. 3, in addition to the regular Friday night that week, Dec. 7. The next week the stores will be open on Monday night, Dec. 10, in addition to the regular Friday night, Dec. 14, and on the week preceding Christmas the stores will be open four nights: Monday, Dec. 17; Thursday, Dec. 20; Friday, Dec. 21; and Saturday, Dec. 22. The stores will close at the regular time, 5:30, on Christmas Eve. The merchants felt this would be a better plan than having the stores open every night the week before Christmas and would also give an extra shopping night.

Cline Cain, chairman of the Christmas decorations committee, stated that because of the plans sometime in the future for a change in the lighting system in the downtown area, it was not advisable to consider the overhead decorations for across the streets at this time and that for another year they would continue the individual decorations of the stores. He urged that the decorations be put up as high as possible and to outline architectural designs at the top when it could be done.

Mrs. Harry Goldberg told about the bus situation and the plan for advertising cards in the buses was discussed along with other ideas by the merchants.

A report was made that the contest to be sponsored by the Lions Club for the painting of pictures by children on store windows had been dropped for this year as the children in some schools had not had water color painting and would be at a disadvantage. Many of the merchants had offered their windows for the contest.

Jack Shoemaker, president of the Kiwanis Club, presented the plan of his club for a "Get out and vote" project and gave out lapel buttons which read: "Let's all vote."

Ike Says US Deplores Intervention of Red Forces in Hungary

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the United States "deplores the intervention of Soviet military forces" in strife-torn Hungary.

The President issued a statement on the situation in Hungary after arriving here by train from Washington for a major campaign address tonight.

His statement followed a telephone talk with Secretary of State Dulles in Washington.

He said further that the presence of such Soviet forces in Hungary "as is now demonstrated, is not to protect Hungary against armed aggression from without, but rather to continue an occupation of Hungary by the forces of an alien government for its own purposes."

Some of the low spots are bad enough to cause a tractor to tip over.

Makes Appeal For Rebels To Yield Arms

Troops Are Slowly Crushing Anti-Red Forces in Budapest

VIENNA (AP)—Hungarian rioting continued today, and Premier Imre Nagy promised he will negotiate with Moscow to withdraw its occupation troops if the rebels will end their revolution.

Nagy went on the radio to appeal for the rebellious forces of students and workers to lay down their arms and help his new government.

He promised that if they did so the country would get a new deal. "As soon as order is re-established those troops which were called by our government to help will be withdrawn," he said.

Apparently this meant that as soon as the revolution ended the Russian troops, tanks and jet plane pilots would be recalled to their bases. Then Nagy would take up negotiations with Moscow to have the four or five Soviet divisions in Hungary evacuated to Russia.

Broadcasters in Budapest claimed Soviet and Hungarian troops were slowly crushing the anti-Soviet rebellion—but fighting went on.

There were no late figures on casualties, but travelers from Hungary last night said hundreds had been reported killed in Budapest alone.

The ruling Communist party in contradictory broadcasts appealed for the people to return to work, and warned them to stay off the streets because of continued shooting. It announced the ouster of its first secretary in an evident effort to appease rebels who since Tuesday night had been staging a bloody uprising in the heart of the Hungarian capital.

Radio Budapest said Ernő Gero, who only this week returned from Belgrade where he had a "reconciliation" conference with Yugoslav President Tito, had been replaced as first secretary by Janos Kadar, a former jailed Titoist.

Earlier broadcasts said rebels—who had started their insurrection with cries of "Russkies go home"—were still firing in scattered sections of the city, but predicted that the rebel forces would be liquidated "in the course of the day."

The widespread arrest of rebels and suspected sympathizers was reported.

Budapest remained cut off from the outside world by telephone.

Austria hastily reinforced its border guards to handle any possible influx of refugees from Hungary. It was unlikely that many would get through because the Hungarians had sealed their frontiers with army reinforcements.

Some Vienna newspapers reported that the Budapest rebels had obtained their weapons from dissident, Russian-hating Hungarian army units. The Vienna press also reported that there were many Hungarian soldiers among the rebels.

The action inflamed the Arab world. A wave of rioting and farm burning swept Morocco. A general strike hit Tunisia—and demonstrators stoned the British Embassy and European cars in Tripoli and Libya.

Most of the 60 dead were Europeans. Seven were French soldiers. They were killed and 24 others wounded in two ambushes in eastern Morocco.

Cool Front Produces Showers, Little Hail

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A cool front, entering Missouri from Kansas this morning, produced a few showers and a little hail in the Kansas City area.

No rain is predicted for the rest of the state except a few scattered showers in the east tonight and in the extreme southeast tomorrow.

The front is expected to reach St. Louis by tonight. The low tonight is expected to be in the 40s in the northwest and in the 50s in the southeast. The high tomorrow should be 65 to 70.

The weather bureau did not report any rain in the state yesterday.

Hal Boyle's Column—

Woman Pianist Changes From Mining to Exploring

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Peggy Keenan, a lady pianist who became a gold miner, now has decided to become the first woman to reach the North Pole.

"And I will," she said positively. She is the only woman on a scientific expedition of 16 men and 40-odd dogs scheduled to fly to the North Pole next January. The expedition will be headed by her explorer husband, John F. Stowell-Fletcher, a veteran arctic explorer and U. S. Air Force reserve officer.

Miss Keenan, who is red-haired and has eyes she describes herself as "Airedale colored," expects to spend two months in the vicinity of the North Pole and will keep records of the expedition. She doesn't feel her sex is any liability, thinks more arctic exploring should be coeducational.

"A woman actually can stand cold weather better than a man," she said. "I found that out on two previous trips to the arctic, when the weather went to 55 below zero."

It was on a trip to Alaska as a USO entertainer that she met her husband.

Miss Keenan is an adventure-loving woman with both business as well as artistic talent who has never been satisfied with doing just one thing at a time.

While pursuing an active career as a professional pianist she also built up a bankroll operating a flooring concern.

Nine years ago during a dinner party in Los Angeles one of the guests spoke at length of the still untapped mineral wealth in the Black Hills of South Dakota. She was so interested that one of the other guests suggested jokingly, "Why don't you become a gold miner yourself, Peggy?"

Miss Keenan didn't think it was a joke at all. The idea appealed to her at once.

"I'd been a rock hound myself ever since I tramped the high Sierras as a girl with my father, who was interested in mining ventures," she recalled.

She hired a mining engineer with her own money to go to the Black Hills and survey the area. His report was so optimistic that she banged shut her piano, went to South Dakota, put on boots and entered the mining business.

There was plenty of metal in the hills, but it wasn't until recently that new techniques made removing it economic.

Miss Keenan bought mineral leases on a 20-square-mile area northwest of the town of Spearfish. She now heads a $400,000 syndicate called Northwest Defense Minerals, Inc., which will begin full-scale operations next spring.

"The men elected me president," said Miss Keenan grinning, "after I pointed out I owned 60 per cent of the stock."

"The gold we take out will pay for the actual mining costs but gold is no longer a glamour metal. The real glamour metals—and we know we have them — are columbium - tantalum, tungsten, beryllium and titanium. They are the heat-resistant metals the government needs for the jet air.

"Today we are in a whole new age of metals," she expects to take out more than a million dollars worth of metal a year and clear around $600,000. She says there is a 50-year ore supply in the area she has leased.

Between exploring North Pole ice and removing Black Hills gold, Miss Keenan expects 1957 will be her most hectic year.

"After that," she confessed, "I believe I'll be content to go back to my piano for a while."

Says British Liner Could Be Seized For Part in Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Immigration Service official said that the British liner Queen Mary may be subject to seizure by the U. S. government as a result of the Tanya Chwastov case.

James L. Hennessy, executive assistant to Immigration Commissioner J. M. Swing, indicated this is a technical situation, and that there is no actual thought of such action.

Hennessy was before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee which is looking into the case with particular concern about two points:

1. How it was that U. S. officials let the liner sail from New York Oct. 3 although having good reason to believe that Alexei Chwastov had 2½-year-old, American-born Tanya aboard, without a passport for her, and with intent to take her to Russia.

2. What part Soviet officials in this country may have had in the removal of the child from the United States.

Have Surprise Schoolmates' Reunion Here

Four women who attended Look-out School and completed their education there in 1899 had a reunion all their own Sunday afternoon when they gathered at the home of Mrs. Pearl Carver, 911 East Ninth.

Mrs. Carver was surprised when she went to the door and found Mrs. G. W. (Lou) Clifton of Lexington, Okla., Mrs. W. H. (Myrtle) Gudeman of Peoria, Ill., and Mrs. W. S. (Minnie) Glenn, Route 5, standing on her porch. She hadn't seen Mrs. Clifton for more than 50 years and had seen Mrs. Gudeman only once in the half century.

The idea for the reunion was the brain child of Mrs. Russell Brandstetter, Route 5, daughter of Mrs. Glenn. Mrs. Gudeman was visiting in the home of Mrs. Glenn and the two were doing a great deal of talking about former schoolmates. Mrs. Clifton had been called to Sedalia by the death of her brother and was still here, so Mrs. Brandstetter just decided to take her mother and Mrs. Gudeman, then go by for Mrs. Clifton and take them all over to see Mrs. Carver.

The afternoon was spent in remembering, in laughing about things that had happened in their childhood and in taking pictures. There were many things to remember, too, because Mrs. Carver and her brothers lived about two miles from school. They would start out over the rough country road and along the way would be joined by Mrs. Gudeman and Mrs. Glenn and the other children in their families. There were many funny things that happened going back and forth during those years to school and many happy days to remember after they got to school, too.

It was really a wonderful surprise for Mrs. Carver to have her former schoolmates drop in on her for a visit but Sunday was a day of surprises for Mrs. Carver. She had just returned from church, got her dinner ready and sat down to the table when there was a knock at her door. She went, and there stood Mrs. Helen Bates of Chicago, a friend she had not seen for six years, and Mrs. Bates' daughter, Mrs. Virginia Mills of California, Mo. They stayed a while and just about the time they left the other visitors came.

So Sunday will be a day Mrs. Carver will long remember.

Lakeside Club With Mrs. Cunningham

The Lakeside Extension Club met with Mrs. W. P. Cunningham October 11, with Mrs. G. A. Bacher as co-hostess.

Twenty members, one visitor, Mrs. Dadie Arnold, who became a member, seven men and one child were present at the covered dish dinner.

Mrs. Letha Tevis, who was elected president at the September meeting, opened the meeting with group singing. Roll call was "A Halloween Prank."

Mrs. Elaine Turpen read the devotional. The club voted to give the 4-H club $5 and to give $15 to Mercy Hospital.

Mrs. Jennings and Katherine Kroenke gave the lesson, "Kitchen Storage."

Miss Kroenke also led in a game in keeping with the season.

Other officers elected at the September meeting include, Mrs. Bob Daniels, vice-president; Martha Graves, secretary-treasurer; Alma Mathis, parliamentarian; Elaine Turpen, reporter; Katherine Kroenke, game leader and Mrs. Bradley, song leader.

The meeting was closed by repeating the club collect.

Epsilon Beta Chapter Plans Scavenger Hunt

The Epsilon Beta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met in the home of Miss Clarice Mettler with Mrs. Rosalie Pressley as co-hostess.

The president announced that the Beta Sigma Phi cookbook was available.

A scavenger hunt is being planned for Oct. 20, starting at the home of Mrs. Richard Flippin.

Mrs. Edward Brummet was appointed to replace Mrs. Rosalie Pressley on the flower committee.

One of the service projects is to purchase a $63 scale for a school, and a rummage sale will be held Nov. 10 with proceeds toward the scale.

Happy Day Club Holds Devotional Program

Mrs. Russell Lewis entertained the Happy Day Club at her home recently and served a baked chicken dinner to 11 members, six children, and five guests, Mrs. Wilhoit, Mrs. Birch Wilhoit, Nadine Wadleigh, Mrs. Luther Edwards, and Mrs. Hall. Another guest, Mrs. Walter Burch, came for the club meeting.

No business meeting or program was held. A devotional program was held, devoted to 1½-year-old David Russell Ray, who was quite ill at Mercy Hospital, and to Mrs. Ernest Frerich, a member, whose husband died recently.

Mrs. Roy Alexander read a scripture on prayer for strength and comfort. An article on faith was read by Mrs. Frank Evans. Two poems were read, one by Rose Long, the other by Mrs. Luther Edwards, before the group sang "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," led by Mrs. Frank Evans and accompanied by Mrs. Rose Long. A silent prayer was held after the song, and Mrs. Frank Evans closed the meeting with an impressive prayer.

Mrs. F. A. Norton invited the club to meet with her Nov. 14.

Spring Fork Club Has Luncheon Meeting

Mrs. Dennis Raabe entertained the Spring Fork Extension Club a luncheon at her home on the regular meeting date with the following guests present, Mrs. Walter Raabe and Miss Katie McGee, Sedalia, and Mrs. Bruce Ritchie and daughter, Dresden.

After the lunch, the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. O. Brandsgaard, with members answering roll call with "My Family's Favorite Magazine." A committee was appointed to make plans for a fund raising entertainment. A wiener roast was also planned.

Mrs. O. T. Brandsgaard gave an interesting talk on the Boonslick Library, telling of the different types of books available. She also gave a short review on several books, including children and adult books, and showed that every member of the family can find something to interest him.

The November meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Martin Doogs November 8.

Farmers Build Ponds at Fast Rate Per Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers and ranchers are building one to two acre ponds on their lands at a rate of 75,000 a year.

Probably about 1½ million have been constructed in the last 15 to 20 years, an Agriculture Department spokesman says, and more are being built now than ever before.

Such ponds provide water conservation, better livestock management, improved wildlife and waterfowl habitat, increased fish production, land erosion control, supplemental irrigation, fire protection, swimming and recreation.

Two Agriculture Department divisions aid farmers in the construction of these ponds.

The Agriculture Conservation program calls for payments to farmers for conservation practices. An ACP official said that $14,336,000 was spent in 1955 payments to farmers for building new ponds and other water retarding structures and for repairs of old ones.

In the past 20 years, he said, the government has paid about half the cost of building 1,365,000 ponds and water retarding structures. He said it would be "foolhardy" to try to guess at the amount the government has spent on ponds alone in the last two decades.

The Soil Conservation Service helps farmers select pond sites, determine whether there's enough drainage behind the pond to supply it and whether the soil is suitable.

SCS gave technical assistance for 78,800 ponds last year and estimates it has aided in building 750,000 ponds. A large number of these are included among those for which ACP paid part of the costs.

Southerners Deny Negro Rights Barred

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern leaders have challenged a Justice Department official's statement that a mass campaign to deny Negroes the right to vote is under way in the South.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Warren Olney said yesterday investigations already are under way in sections of five states, and criminal charges will be filed where Negroes are deprived of their privileges because of their race.

"Disfranchisement of colored voters is going forward on a mass basis," Olney said, in some areas of Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and North Carolina. This is being accomplished, he said, by what he called "systematic" revisions of registration rolls, frequently on the basis of challenges by White Citizens Councils.

Mississippi's Gov. J. P. Coleman replied that "on its face this is a political move designed to get votes from the Northern Negro."

He said he personally will join in defending any Mississippian indicted on what he called "these trumped-up charges."

Earl Echols, chairman of the Pierce County (Ga.) board of registration, said 130 Negro voters were removed from rolls there after "failing to appear to meet the challenge (of their eligibility) at a board hearing."

Of others who did appear, he added, "only three, four or five" were removed, two of them because of felony convictions. Olney had said Pierce County was one of those under investigation.

Denials came from several officials in Alabama.

State Sen. Sam Englehardt, head of the Alabama Assn. of Citizens Councils, said that organization "hasn't done a thing" about trying to get Negroes off voting lists.

Asa Carter, executive secretary of the separate Alabama Citizens Councils, said his group has made no effort to "intimidate or threaten board registrars to disfranchise Negroes."

Ornithologists have found that birds sing an average of 18 hours daily most of the year.

SKY-WATCHING and looking after the children have been combined in this Ground Observer Corps post at Mechanic Falls, Me., by installing a children's playground. This innovation solves the problem of mothers who complain that they cannot do their part in Operation Skywatch because there is no one to look after their children while on duty. Utah Man Fills Deer Quota in Own Yard

PROVO, Utah (AP) — It's deer-hunting season in Utah—time for the annual nimrod hi jinks.

Like Yukus Inouye of nearby Highland, who was awakened from his nap by hunters' bullets whining too close to his rural home. Going to the window to warn them away, he spotted a four-point buck standing in his own yard, grabbed his rifle and filled his season's quota on the spot.

Or Otto Reichert of Provo who brought his buck back alive. He'd already shot one when he came upon a three-pointer trapped in a barbed-wire fence. Freeing the animal, he brought it home with him, treated its cuts and turned it over to fish and game department.

Screen Producers Vote to Give Disney Milestone Award

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Screen Producers Guild has voted Walt Disney its annual milestone award for his contribution to motion pictures.

The award will be presented Feb. 3, president Samuel G. Engel said. Others who have received the award are Jesse Lasky, Louis B. Mayer, Darryl F. Zanuck and Cecil B. DeMille.

Actor Pleads Guilty To Reckless Flying

This General Started His Military Career in State

By State Historical Society of Missouri

His capture of Fort Henry and Fort Donelson gave the North its first important victories; his capture of Vicksburg severed the Confederacy; his strategy as commander-in-chief of all the Union armies in the closing campaigns of the war forced Lee's surrender at Appomattox Court House. Do you know his name?

1. What was his connection with Missouri?

A. He was born in Point Pleasant, Ohio, in 1822. After graduation from West Point in 1843, he was assigned to Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis. While stationed

Black Jack 4-H Club Elect New Officers

The Black Jack 4-H Club met at the Community Center. The meeting was opened with the 4-H pledge and the pledge of allegiance. Roll call was answered with "An Interesting Fact About Halloween."

The president, Dana Egner, conducted the business meeting.

The following officers were elected for the new year: Garry Eichholz, president; Carl Anderson, vice-president; Paul Dan Bass, secretary-treasurer; Carolyn Oehrke, reporter; Dickie Dittmer, song leader; Leak Lewis, pianist; Mrs. William Trombower, community leader, and Mrs. Claude Page, assistant leader.

A sheep demonstration was given by Larry Bass, Garry Eichholz, and Carl Anderson.

Paul Bass played a trumpet solo and Larry Bass gave the 4-H origin.

The meeting adjourned for refreshments.

Arator Community Club Meets All Day

The Arator Community Club met Oct. 16 at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Quint with a contributive dinner served at noon.

Mrs. J. J. Cramer, president, officiated over the business meeting. Roll call was answered by ten members.

The following officers were elected: Mrs. Mary Wallace, president; Mrs. Sam Henderson, vice-president; Mrs. H. S. Cox, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. E. L. Cramer, game leader; Mrs. Margaret Youngkamp, song leader; Mrs. Margaret Youngkamp, song leader; Mrs. Jim Lacey, flower lunch chairman, with Mrs. John Long, assistant, and Mrs. J. J. Cramer, reporter.

The next meeting will be Nov. 14 at the home of Mrs. E. L. Cramer.

Mrs. Harvey Wadleigh Is Honored at Shower

Mrs. Gordon Brownfield, assisted by Mrs. Vergil Ogilvie, entertained guests at a pink and blue shower honoring Mrs. Harvey Wadleigh, Green Ridge, Tuesday evening.

Guests present were: the honoree; Mrs. Frank Hughes, Windsor; Mrs. E. S. Close, Mrs. Emmett Ruffin, Mrs. Vaughn White, Mrs. Ralph Chaney, Miss Grace Still, Miss Gayle Kendrick, Mrs. G. W. Hamby, Mrs. L. H. Wadleigh, Mrs. Harley Williams, Mrs. F. L. Calvert and Mrs. Loy Smith.

Games were enjoyed by the group and Mrs. Ralph Chaney, Mrs. Emmett Ruffin and Mrs. F. L. Calvert received prizes.

Mrs. Wadleigh received a number of lovely gifts.

there, he met Julia Dent, the sister of Fred T. Dent, his former classmate, and in 1844 they became engaged. In 1848, after his participation in the Mexican War, they were married in St. Louis. Their life together was interrupted when his regiment was ordered to the Pacific coast in 1852. Stationed at lonely outposts, home sick, and hating army life, his drinking habits brought about his resignation from the army in 1854. He returned to a farm in St. Louis County. Unsuccessful at farming, in 1858 he tried the real estate business in St. Louis and in 1860 he worked as a clerk in his father's store in Galena, Illinois.

2. How did he win fame in the Civil War?

A. Appointed colonel of the 21st Illinois Volunteers in 1861, he saw his first service in northeast Missouri. After brief commands at Mexico, Ironton, Jefferson City, and Cape Girardeau, he established headquarters at Cairo, Illinois, and in November, 1861, defeated the Confederates at Belmont, Mo. His capture of Fort Henry and Fort Donelson electrified the nation and newspapers were filled with his praise. But his great loss of men and seeming lack of leadership in the Battle of Shiloh in 1862 made him unpopular.

His brilliant capture of Vicksburg again made him the hero of the North. After a series of swift and dramatic battles in Tennessee in 1863, he was placed in command of all the Union armies. He pursued a merciless policy of attrition in the bloody battles which drove Lee's army back upon Petersburg and Richmond. But following the surrender of Lee he said, "I felt like anything but rejoicing at the downfall of a foe who had fought so long and valiantly," and his terms of surrender were generous.

3. When was he elected President of the United States?

A. He was nominated and elected President in 1868 and re-elected in 1872. Widespread political corruption prevailed during his presidency. Although he was lacking in political experience and unwise in his choice of associates, proof of his personal honesty was completely convincing in connection with the financial scandals of the time. In the face of financial panic in 1873, he vetoed a currency inflation bill and urged the passage of the act for resumption of sound money payments. Another highlight of his administration was the completion of the first trans-continental railroad.

4. For what is he remembered in his later years?

A. Stricken by a fatal illness and bankrupt from unwise investments, he courageously undertook to write his Memoirs, hoping the work would provide support for his wife. He clung desperately to life until the last chapter was written. A week later, he died at Mt. McGregor, New York, July 23, 1885.

5. Are there monuments to his memory in Missouri?

A. Surviving members of the 21st Illinois Volunteers erected a statue to his memory at Ironton in 1886. His statue stands on Twelfth Street, St. Louis, and the Grant log cabin, near St. Louis, is a well-preserved landmark.

6. What was his name?

A. Ulysses Simpson Grant.

Little Girls Give Benefit
Show for Muscular Dystrophy

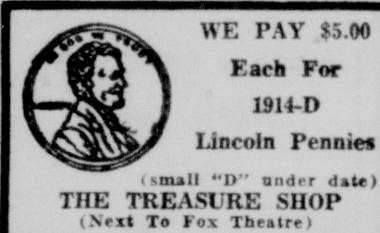

Saturday was carnival day in the backyard of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Burford, 1514 South Missouri, when their young daughter, Barbara and three little girl friends decided to put on a show for the benefit of the Muscular Dystrophy Fund. The other girls were Madge Hanes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hanes, Kay Cairer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cairer and Linda Strader, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Strader.

It was quite a show and the girls, all of them ten years old, thought the whole thing up by themselves, made all the plans, and carried them out.

The admission to the backyard was a nickel and the main show consisted of a fat lady singing, a baton twirling number, a dance and a few other stunts, all put on by the four girls. When the show was over, there was a refreshment stand where the 27 youngsters attending the carnival could buy popcorn and a cold drink. The popcorn must have made them thirsty, because they sold all the drinks they had and Barbara's daddy had to slip in the house and make some more.

They had balloons to shoot darts at and in case anybody broke a balloon with a dart they received a stick of candy, and they received a stick of candy if they managed to ring a soda pop bottle with a jar rubber. The kids attending the carnival must have been pretty good at balloon breaking and throwing jar rubbers, because the four girls ran out of sticks of candy. They had paid two cents apiece for the candy and when they ran out of candy they bought sticks of candy back, paying the full two cents, from some of the winners and kept on giving away the candy.

The fish pond proved a popular place, too, and the girls got rid of their old comic books, jewelry, toys and various things by wrapping them in pieces of newspaper, putting them in a box and letting the other kids fish for prizes. They even had a door prize.

Stools and lawn chairs formed the seats for the main show and a picnic table top that had been taken off for the winter was the stage.

It was really quite a carnival with all the noise and yelling that goes with a carnival.

When the nickels and pennies were counted, there was a total of $3.93, so the grandmother of one of the girls added the necessary pennies to make $4, which was turned over to the Muscular Dystrophy Fund.

There was a little deeper reason one of the little girls, Linda Strader, had for wanting the carnival to be a success. Bobby Wolf, who has muscular dystrophy, is her uncle.

Truman Says Another 1929 Is Imminent

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former President Harry Truman said today he saw in Republican economic policies "the glimmer of another 1929."

In a speech prepared for delivery before the convention of the Bakery and Confectionary Workers International Union, Truman said:

"The danger is that, as the Republicans continue their policies of favoring the privileged few, more and more of the little people will fall by the wayside. The wage earner will join the farmer and the small business man on the to-bogged of falling incomes. The gaps in our prosperity will get bigger and bigger. No man knows where it will end, but in the distance I see the glimmer of another 1929."

Referring to the 1929-1932 period, Truman said, "I know it is regarded as impolite in some quarters to talk about this. But the fact remains that we did have a depression at that time — a very bad one, and it is also the fact that it came as the culmination of 12 years of Republican rule in Washington."

Campaigning for the Democratic party, the former President said the Democrats put the country back on its feet when it took office in 1932. But under the Republicans since 1932, he said, "the economic growth of our country has slowed down."

"Mr. Eisenhower," said Truman, "has some figures he is fond of using that are supposed to show how much better off the country has been during his administration. At the same time, he is prone to accuse those who disagree with him of using half-truths. When we examine what he has been doing with some of these figures, you might be inclined to wonder whether anyone accusing him of half-truths would not be engaging in sheer flattery."

Truman said President Eisenhower described himself as "the chief apostle of truth" and added: "Now the worst thing about this is not that a President of the United States should treat the truth so lightly, although this is very bad. The worst thing is the danger which lies in the facts he is trying to conceal."

Says GOP Will Deliver Civil Rights Pledges

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice President Nixon said today the Eisenhower administration will deliver on its pledges to broaden civil rights but that an Adlai Stevenson administration would be unable to do so.

That is the case, he said in a speech prepared for a rally here, "because the Republican party is solidly united behind the President's program" on civil rights while the Democrats are split into two warring camps on the issue.

Nixon chose for the speech a South Side ballroom in a predominantly Negro section of this metropolis, which has a large Negro population. His schedule called for a full day of campaigning in Chicago and its suburbs, with a noontime parade staged by the Citizens for Eisenhower - Nixon organization in the Loop. He is to fly to Rockford, Ill., for a speech tonight, then return to Chicago.

The vice-president said in the speech that if Stevenson were elected, the story on civil rights would be: "a lot of talk, a lot of promises but no action."

"This would be true," he declared, "not because anyone questions Mr. Stevenson's devotion to the cause of equality of opportunity for all, but because approximately half of his party supports his position while the other half is dead set against it."

Phantom Candidate Runs for Congress in Virginia District

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—Richard O. Read is a phantom candidate for Congress in Virginia's 10th Dist. Well, almost.

Read is on the ballot as an independent opposing Republican Rep. Joel Broyhill and Democratic challenger Warren Queenstedt.

He has made no speeches or public appearances. His only communication with the public has been through a circular in which he said he would make no speeches, radio or television appearances.

The circular listed a platform calling for:

A federal act to control the weather.

Six bridges across the Potomac River into Virginia.

An act to abolish war, selective service and to substitute a construction program with military facilities to be used by civilians and private contractors.

Abolition of gangster movies and plays on television and radio.

Read's only press notices have been those telling of unsuccessful attempts to reach him.

When a reporter called at his residence, a neighbor said he was out of town and wouldn't be back for a few weeks.

Founded in 1701, Detroit is the oldest city in the Midwest.

Retailers Can Expect Rough Competition

NEW YORK (AP)—Retailers are agreed this will be the biggest year for total retail sales. But for what kind of stores?

Competition rarely has been fiercer than it is this fall between the discount houses and the conventional stores, the cut-price catalogues and the small-town appliance or furniture shops, the big retail chains and the small merchant.

Lon Hocker Urges Students to 'Practice Law—Not Influence'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lon Hocker, Republican candidate for governor, urged Washington University law students yesterday to "practice law—not influence."

"Do not take as your example a few state officials who represent private clients, for personal gain, against the interest of the state," he added.

The St. Louis attorney, referring to his Democratic opponent, Lt. Gov. James T. Blair Jr., then told the assembly of students:

"The present lieutenant governor of Missouri has admittedly been representing a huge trucking firm in a dispute against the state. Over $750,000 is involved. An attorney for the state has testified that the activities of the lieutenant governor were 'improper.' The lieutenant governor defends his action on the ground he has violated no specific law."

The faces of the competitors are changing too. Discount houses, which first relied on direct mail or word of mouth advertising, are advertising in newspapers. They are setting up branch stores and growing into chains. Some will de-

Baby Attendant Hears Lawyer Enter Plea Of Guilt in Deaths

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Six-foot, 220-pound baby attendant Virginia Jaspers, accused of the fatal shaking of two infants, stood with head bowed yesterday as her lawyer entered a plea of guilty.

The 33-year-old blonde, who said she shook the children "because sometimes babies get on my nerves," faces a maximum sentence of 15 years each on two counts of manslaughter. She will be sentenced next month.

Miss Jaspers, who is not a nurse, cared for newborn infants in their homes. She was arrested in August, after a doctor became suspicious and ordered an autopsy performed on 11-day-old Abbe Kapsinow of New Haven.

A coroner blamed that death, and the death of 2-month-old Jennifer Malkin, on Miss Jaspers' "uncontrollable fits of temper."

The death of a third child under Miss Jaspers' care in 1948 was ruled out because of the statute of limitations, according to State's Atty. Abraham S. Ullman.

liver, sell on time, offer their own guarantees.

On the other hand, some big department stores cut prices to meet the discount house figure. Others push their trade-in plans, their cut-price warehouse sales, or trim some costlier services.

Smaller stores fight back to meet the competition of lower prices. A group of 100 home furnishings retailers in the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast states has just been formed to do mass buying of furniture, carpets and appliances. This way they hope to offset the inroads of the discount catalogues.

But what will happen to the small specialty stores, away from the big distribution centers, as they try to meet the competition of the lower prices carried in the catalogues of big chains and discount houses?

As long as consumer's incomes grow and convenience offsets the pull of the bargain, the showdown may be staved off. But this winter you're going to see a number of less than averagely happy retailers.

Trouble was, the lady driver was about to hit him. Getting out of the way, he bit his whistle too hard and broke a right front tooth in two places.

Ike Speaks In New York This Evening

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower takes his re-election campaign to New York today after saying the H-bomb helps give America "a position of strength" making any aggressor's attack "suicidal."

In Madison Square Garden tonight, Eisenhower will make a nationwide NBC radio-television address.

Time: 9 p.m., EST. After the speech, he will fly back to Washington.

The White House indicated Eisenhower plans to hit out again at a proposal by Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic presidential nominee, that the United States take the lead in seeking world agreement on banning hydrogen bomb tests.

Eisenhower's statement that U.S. possession of the H-bomb helps give it an essential "position of strength" in dealing with any potential enemy came late yesterday as he replied to questions put to him by a group of women on a GOP-sponsored radio-TV program.

He also said anew that the military draft must be continued because the United States lives in "a world of tension." Stevenson has called for an end to the draft when that is consistent with national security.

Miss Beverly Barr, a young high school teacher from Rochester, N.Y., wanted to know "how long it will be necessary for us to have a draft."

Speaking from a Washington TV studio with Mrs. Eisenhower at his side, the President replied he "would be really using a crystal ball" if he tried to predict. He added he didn't think he would be justified in talking about termination of the draft "in terms of months or years."

He went on to say that with about three million American men now under arms, the nation can count on only about half that number as volunteers.

The next question was from Mrs. Louis Martin, Negro mother of 12 children who lives on a farm near Salisbury, Md. She said she is "really worried" about the H-bomb, and added:

"I would like to know what is the future of our families in this atomic age."

Calling it a "very serious and important question," Eisenhower said "the world must find a peaceful solution" to the problem presented by the superbomb.

Without mentioning Stevenson's proposal, the President said: "We can never have a hydrogen war, as I see it, and still have a civilization such as we now have."

Lions Give Monthly Aid To Children

The Sedalia Lions Club at its noon meeting Wednesday voted to give financial support to the contribution of the Crippled Children's Center at the Bothwell Hospital. The contribution is being based on $25 per month for one year and is retroactive to July 1, 1956. The monthly payments will be from money earned through the Lions gum ball machines which are located throughout Sedalia.

When the Center was first discussed, the Lions budgeted funds for the immediate purchase of necessary equipment to get the Center into operation. Since the opening of the Center the Club has contributed more than $2000 toward the purchasing of necessary equipment as it became needed.

The original money for the Crippled Children's Center and other children's activities of the Lions were derived from the fashion show which the Club produced, ice cream socials, the gum ball machines, and a portion from the annual broom sales, with the remainder from the latter activity going toward the blind work of the Lions.

During the noonday meeting Wednesday, Mrs. Rudolph Swope, director of the Center, and Mrs. Virginia Flower, president of the board of directors of the Crippled Children's Center, spoke and reviewed the accomplishments and work with the children.

Walter Gault, physical therapist at the Center, gave a demonstration with two of the children with whom he has been working for the past several months. The children and their instructor enjoyed every minute of it.

It was explained by both Mrs. Flower and Mrs. Swope that the Center is, and must be supported by local funds. It is not directly connected with the United Fund Drive but does have some aid from the Cerebral Palsy and the March of Dimes, but far from enough to carry out the entire program. It is maintained for the greater part on individual contributions from organizations such as the B.P.O. Elks, Lions, and various other civic organizations as well as from individuals.

The Lions inasmuch as they were among the first to put forward to get the Center started voted the monthly contribution to help in a financial way.

Guests at the meeting were C. W. Stephenson, of Frank Deady; John Van Dyne, of A. B. Warren; and visiting Lion L. M. Heckman, Alpha Club, Kansas City.

President Bob Cain called attention to the Halloween party to be held at the Old Missouri Homestead on Wednesday, Oct. 31, and dispensing with the regular noon meeting that day.

He also announced the planned artistic work of drawing on downtown windows was being called off due to the lateness of being able for the schools to have eliminations of students for those to do the drawings in the downtown contests. However, the program is expected to be carried out in 1957.

Charles King Retires From Fox Theatres

Charles King, connected with theatrical and amusement enterprises in Sedalia since a school boy, retired Wednesday, Oct. 24. His most recent work had been with the Fox Theatres, where he was maintenance man, he being employed in that capacity since the Fox interests took over the motion picture houses operated by them in Sedalia.

Several months ago King was the recipient of the courtesy award from the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce.

His long years of service kept him in contact with patrons of the talkies, as well as in years gone by in the days of the silent films, such associations widely broadening his acquaintanceship.

He plans a short rest period and will no doubt be accorded some special recognition by his fellow workers and amusement-minded friends.

Henry W. Nagel, 80, died unexpectedly at 9:45 a.m. Thursday while in a wagon at the farm home of a son, Raymond Nagel, three miles north of Hughesville, in a sudden attack, apparently of heart trouble. Corn was being picked at the farm when the seizure came upon him.

Mr. Nagel was a long-time resident of Pettis County, having come to it from Illinois at the age of 19 when he located on a farm near Houstonia, living in the county continuously since.

He was born in Germany Feb. 13, 1876, son of the late William and Louise Nagel and came to America when but a child.

He was married in Sedalia Nov. 10, 1904, to Miss Kate Houchen. Mr. Nagel was a member of the Hughesville Presbyterian Church, an elder of that congregation and currently superintendent of the Sunday School there. He also belonged to the Modern Woodmen of America.

Surviving are: his wife, of the home at Hughesville; three sons, Raymond, of that vicinity, William, Wichita, Kan., and Henry Nagel, 2200 West Second, Sedalia; a brother, William Nagel, Nashville, Ill.; five grandchildren; several nieces and nephews. Six sisters preceded him in death.

The body was brought to the Gillespie Funeral Home to await completion of funeral arrangements.

Scientist Group Says Test Halt Would Give Hope

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federation of American Scientists said last night an international agreement to stop nuclear tests would "give hope to millions" that broader pacts to limit armaments could be reached.

This was one of several new opinions expressed in the campaign debate over continued H-bomb testing.

Arthur H. Compton, former chancellor of Washington University and one of the developers of the original atomic bomb, told the St. Louis Ministerial Alliance that "to maintain our freedom we must continue testing hydrogen bombs."

Compton said he supports President Eisenhower's rejection of proposals by Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, that the United States take the lead in efforts toward an international agreement to halt H-bomb testing.

The Stevenson-Kefauver campaign committee here issued a statement saying that 270 scientists have sent messages endorsing Stevenson's proposal "or have issued statements urging free and open discussion of these tests."

The Federation of American Scientists said a ban on nuclear testing "would lessen international tensions which have been increased by each new series of nuclear tests."

The statement was issued by the executive committee of the organization, which describes itself as a nonpartisan group of 2,100 scientists and engineers formed in 1946 to help interrelate science and public affairs.

Stevenson Pledges Action on Poland, Hungary Freedom

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson has pledged his support "for responsible action on the part of our government" to help move Poland and Hungary "closer to freedom."

The Democratic presidential nominee said in a prepared statement last night:

"We have all been stirred these days by the struggle in Poland, and now in Hungary, against Soviet foreign Communist control. It is at least a step toward independence from domestic Communist control."

"We must help if we can, and if Soviet pressure continues and the Polish and Hungarian governments wish it, I believe we should assist in bringing these matters before the United Nations. I believe further that we should be prepared to join other nations in offering economic assistance to governments in Poland and Hungary free from Russian domination."

"The future of these countries is a matter above politics. I want to say now that I pledge my support for responsible action on the part of our government which will help move these nations and their indomitable people closer to freedom."

The 112-mile stretch between Indianapolis and Dayton was the first in the United States to have painted rooftop and highway markers for air travel.

Living Cost Rise Reported By the Gov't

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today that living costs rose three-tenths of one percent in September to a record level.

The index of the Labor Department's Bureau of Statistics reached 117.1 per cent of the 1947-49 base period.

This was about one-tenth of one percent above the prior record of 117 in July, and compares with 116.8 for August.

Prices were higher in September for all major groups of consumer goods and services except food, which remained at the August level.

The bureau said the September living cost level was nearly 2 percent higher than a year ago and 2.8 percent higher than in January 1955, at the start of President Eisenhower's administration.

The living cost rise means wage boosts ranging from two to four cents an hour for about 300,000 workers in a variety of industries, mainly the electrical manufacturing industry, including General Electric Co. plants. Wage rates for these workers are geared in part to changes in the government living cost index.

New record levels of factory worker earnings also were reported. The Bureau of Labor Statistics said take-home pay — or earnings less tax deductions — reached a new peak in September.

The average take-home pay of a factory worker without dependents was $66.65 a week, and that of a worker with a wife and two children was $74.04. Each figure is about $1.10 higher than the rate in August and approximately $2.60 above a year ago.

Gen. Taylor Declares New War Will Involve Use of Atomic Arms

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor declared today "there will never again be a war involving the major powers without the use or the threat of use of atomic weapons."

The Army chief of staff, speaking amidst the campaign debate over continued testing of big nuclear weapons, also said the "sure way to encourage an enemy to use atomic weapons would be to confront him with a force unprepared for atomic action."

Taylor spoke of the "hopes and aspirations for the future" of his service in a speech prepared for the second annual convention of the Assn. of the United States Army, a group of some 1,500 civilian industrialists, reserve, National Guard and inactive officers organized to "speak with a single voice" for the Army.

Chairmen Back Repeat Terms For Judges

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Missouri's Republican and Democratic state chairmen have joined in endorsing the re-election of judges who will appear on the nonpartisan judicial ballot at the general election.

Usually W. F. Daniels, the Democratic chairman, and Perry Compton, the Republican chairman, are feuding with each other. This time they signed a joint statement which was released by Clarence O. Woolsey of Springfield, state chairman of the Bar Association's judicial elections committee.

They endorsed Supreme Court Judges Henry J. Westhues, Henry I. Eager and Clem F. Sorckman; Judge M. C. Matthes of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, and Judges Justin Ruark and A. P. Stone, Jr., of the Springfield Court of Appeals.

Daniels and Compton noted that 95 per cent of the lawyers who voted in a Bar Association poll favored retaining all of them in office under the nonpartisan court plan.

"We believe that these men have made excellent records," the joint statement said, "and that they have rendered able and meritorious service in office. We give to each of them our unqualified endorsement."

Incidentally the traffic bureau returned the pennies to Hagemann.

Wife of Ex-Munitions Maker Seeks 5 Million

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The wife of Alfred Krupp, former munitions maker and now a leading German industrialist, is asking for five million dollars in cash as a divorce settlement. She says he has 250 million dollars in banks around the world.

Mrs. Krupp, 42, filed suit yesterday in District Court, charging her 48-year-old husband "wilfully and without cause withdrew from the marriage bed." She also accused him of mental cruelty.

In addition to the cash settlement, she also asked for $250,000 a year support.

Krupp was arrested after World War II and sentenced to 12 years for war crimes. He was later granted amnesty.

Civilian Plane, Jet Collide Over Homes

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—A flaming collision of an Air Force jet and a civilian plane exploded wreckage and bodies over a residential district yesterday.

Seven bodies, including that of a baby girl, fell with the wreckage. The jet plummeted flaming into an empty home. The engine of the civilian plane crashed into the kitchen of another home where a mother had just taken her children into the living room.

"That small plane looked as if it were flying almost in the same direction as the jet," L. B. Martin, Dallas, Tex., truck driver said. "There was a loud explosion, then pieces of both planes and bodies were falling everywhere."

Killed were Winfred R. Clement, 27, his wife Elizabeth, 25, and their 13-month-old daughter Cathy, all of Bowie, Tex.; Mrs. Clement's parents, Roy E. Howard, 63, and Ethel Howard, 57, Vashit, Tex.; Lt. Lowell D. Hale, 25, Decatur, Ill., and Capt. Roy A. Roberts, 29, Belleville, Ill.

The jet wreckage crashed into the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Saunders, who weren't home at the time.

"If it hadn't been for my sister I probably would have been in that house and been killed myself," Mrs. Saunders said. She said her sister had insisted that they go shopping.

The engine of the civilian plane crashed into the kitchen of Mrs. Billy Crowe. Only minutes earlier she had taken her children—Janice, 1, and Debra, 3—into the living room.

Wreckage and bodies were strewn all over the middle class residential area. The body of one woman crashed through the roof of another home and lodged in the bathtub. A child was found crumpled in a flower bed.

Webb Air Force Base said one of the airmen in the T33 had ejected himself but his chute failed to open. The body of the other airman was found in the burned Saunders home.

The Clement plane had taken off at 2:30 p.m. from the Ector County Airport at Odessa, 12 miles southwest of this west Texas town, after the Clements had visited with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Howard.

The military ship was based at Webb Air Force Base, Big Spring.

Later last night, a jet training plane crashed and exploded east of Big Spring. Officials at Webb Air Force Base said the pilot, a mechanic at the base who had taken the plane up without authorization, was killed. His name was not released.

Rules Prosecutor Did Nothing Wrong In Using 'Racketeers'

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals has ruled that a federal prosecutor did nothing improper in using the term "racketeers" in referring to former labor officials on trial for extortion.

The appellate court here made this statement yesterday in an opinion affirming the conviction of Henry Schmidt, former business agent of Teamsters Union Local 682, and Peter P. Higgins Sr., former head of the union.

Schmidt and Higgins were sentenced last year to 10 years in prison for extorting a total of $1,800 from two contractors.

It was contended in the appeal from Schmidt's conviction that a mistrial should have been granted because Forrest Boecker, assistant U. S. attorney, used the term "racketeers" in addressing the trial jury.

The appellate court opinion said that "the statute under which the defendants were indicted is captioned 'racketeering' and we think that it was not improper under the circumstances for the government's attorney to say that in his view the evidence showed that the defendants were racketeers."

Wife of Ex-Munitions Maker Seeks 5 Million

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The wife of Alfred Krupp, former munitions maker and now a leading German industrialist, is asking for five million dollars in cash as a divorce settlement. She says he has 250 million dollars in banks around the world.

Mrs. Krupp, 42, filed suit yesterday in District Court, charging her 48-year-old husband "wilfully and without cause withdrew from the marriage bed." She also accused him of mental cruelty.

In addition to the cash settlement, she also asked for $250,000 a year support.

Investigates Entry At Outpost Cleaners Near Whiteman AFB

An investigation of a break-in Monday night of the Outpost Cleaners, a laundry and dry cleaning pickup station outside the north gate to the Whiteman Air Force Base, continued today but with no new results, Johnson County Deputy Sheriff William O. Fortney said.

Fortney said nothing has been found so far to have been taken, but that Marvin Montgomery, who leases the station, said he could not take a complete inventory and would not know if anything was taken until all clothes on hand are called for by persons owing them.

Smith-Cotton Cross Country Team Wins

By VIC VAN DYNE

Smith-Cotton cross country team defeated Marshall for the second time in a row at the State Fair Grounds Wednesday afternoon. The race was run over a two mile course in cool and windy weather.

In the first meeting of these two teams, Sedalia won by nine points, low score winning. The course was one and one-quarter miles long over very hilly terrain. Dick Morris took first honors with a time of 7:18. This was a new record for this particular course. Jerry Bredwell finished second, Bob Kriesel third for Smith-Cotton. Jones captured fourth, Williams fifth, Dix sixth and Holiday seventh for Marshall. Placing 8 and 9 for S-C were Dale Burford and Lorin Sutherland. Placing 12 and 13 for S-C were Dicky Craig and Kenny Shepherd. The Tigers had a total of 23 points to Marshall's 32.

Wednesday the Tigers again were able to capture a victory over Marshall with four Sedalians capturing the first four places. Dick Morris was first with a time of 11:17; Jerry Bredwell second with a time of 11:25; Robert Kreisel third with a time of 11:25; and Dale Burford whose time was 11:53.

Marshall captured fifth, sixth and seventh place with times of 11:54, 11:58 and 12:25. Loren Sutherland placed eighth, Mike Lee, ninth, and Dick Craig, tenth. All Smith-Cotton runners. Little Kenny Shepherd finished 13 with a time of 13:37. The final score was 18 for Smith-Cotton and 41 for Marshall.

Smith-Cotton travels to St. Louis Friday to take part in the annual State Cross Country Meet. Forrest Arnall, the coach, has his hopes up high for the state meet since such good times have been turned in by Dick Morris, Jerry Bredwell and Robert Kreisel.

Stassen Finds Soviet Leaders Arms Control Attitude Significant

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Harold E. Stassen says it's significant that Russian leaders "have now acknowledged that any comprehensive disarmament program must be supported by reliable control methods."

Stassen, special assistant to President Eisenhower on disarmament, told a Jewish men's club meeting last night that Kremlin leaders once flatly opposed any international inspection plan but "it is now the form and thoroughness of inspection which represents the remaining gap."

He said this means the split between East and West that has stalled disarmament has "narrowed noticeably."

He warned against looking for easy solutions.

"Deeply imbedded dilemma will not be swept away by either truculence or timidity," he said.

Stassen also warned against pessimism on disarmament.

Little Girl's Query About Politics Gives Editor Trouble

By ED GRIFFITH
Bakersfield Californian

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Janice Anderson of McFarland is a little girl with a big question.

And, like another little girl who received the answer to her big question in the famed "Dear Virginia" editorial of the New York Sun many years ago, Janice has directed her query to a newspaper. Here is the question she has posed to the Bakersfield Californian:

"Dear editor:
"My name is Janice Anderson. I am 10 years old. I would like to know the difference between Democrats and Republicans. My mother and father are Republicans and my neighbor is a Democrat.

"My father and mother explained it, but I still can't understand it.

"Thank you. Yours truly, Janice Anderson, Rt. 1, Box 426, McFarland, Calif."

Managing Editor Jim Day asked Kern County party leaders for help in replying. The best he got was, "Now, that's a tough one to answer."

Consulting Webster's 1955 Unabridged International Dictionary, the Californian found these definitions:

Democratic party—"It has advocated a strict construction of the Constitution, sharp limitations of powers of federal government and a broad construction of reserved rights of states. It has generally pronounced in favor of a low tariff, practically for revenue only."

Republican party—"Among the policies with which the Republican party has been identified are a liberal construction of the Constitution, esp. in the direction of federal power, maintenance of the gold standard, and a protective tariff system."

The Californian's editor wondered: Is Webster really accurate?

Next Day wrote President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson.

After some delay, Murray Snyder, assistant press secretary to the President, replied for the Republicans and Stevenson himself answered for the Democratic party.

Snyder wrote:

"It is not possible for us to give you a presidential statement" on Janice's question. Snyder offered what he termed "an excellent exposition on the subject," delivered in Minneapolis last month by Arthur Larson, undersecretary of labor. (It was two long pages of single-spaced typing.)

As his answer, Stevenson sent directly to Janice a seven-page, double-spaced copy of a speech he delivered in August to members of the United Auto Workers meeting in Washington. The Illinois Democrat wrote to Janice he hoped that "perhaps your mother and father will be able to help you understand" the difference between Democrats and Republicans by "simplifying some of the more difficult passages."

The official Republican statement started out by saying there is an "underlying cleavage in the philosophy between the two parties." Democrats, said Undersecretary Larson, have "a tendency, as to all sorts of human problems, to try collective and governmental remedies as against relying on individual, pluralist, and private activities."

His party "believes that the private and individual remedy should be tried first in all problems, with the government stepping in only if the job is too big for private, state or local efforts," Larson concluded.

Declared Stevenson: "It is the Democratic faith . . . that the government of a democracy must trust all the people it serves, that it must be made up of representatives of all the people, and that its obligations cannot be to any special interest but only to all the people."

Of the millions of people listening to the words now being uttered in campaign speeches, perhaps one might know a short, simple answer to Janice's question.

Meanwhile, Janice figures her search for uncomplicated truth has not been completely fruitless: She has Stevenson's autograph!

Father Is Arrested For Teaching Son 'Cleanliness Lesson'

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A father was arrested after teaching his 9-year-old son what he said was "a lesson in cleanliness" with a scrub brush, police reported.

Roy Wise, 31, was booked on suspicion of unjustifiable punishment of a child. Juvenile officers said the boy, George, suffered deep scratches on the face and back.

Dallas Church Offers Buildings for All White Private School

DALLAS (AP)—The First Baptist Church of West Dallas has offered the use of its three buildings for an all-white private school in case the public schools of Dallas are integrated.

The announcement said teachers would condemn the United Nations and "one world ideology."

The Rev. Carey Daniel, pastor of the church, is vice president of the Texas Citizens Council of Dallas. He said the school also will teach evolution "as a damnable heresy and not as a scientific fact."

Small Baby Boy Is Reported Okay

GLENDAL, Calif. (AP)—A baby boy, who weighed 31 ounces at birth Saturday, was reported doing fine today in Glendale Community Hospital.

Dr. Boyd Henry said that, barring complications, Darryl Francis Knight "has a good chance." The baby was born 2½ months premature.

Darryl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Knight of nearby La Crescenta, have three other children.

Polish Delegate Says Revolt Not Unexpected

TOKYO (AP)—A Polish delegate to a United Nations subcommittee meeting said today his nation's revolt against Soviet control was not entirely unexpected.

Dr. Stanislaw Gall said he had anticipated such a change since a "democratization" movement began in Poland six months ago. He told reporters he expected Polish living standards to be raised by the changes.

Horse Sense
HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP)—A team of horses found its way home from a farm where the two had been taken more than a year ago.

Farmer Charles Myers of nearby Osseo said the horses broke down a pasture fence at his son's farm and trotted back home along a busy highway. Myers found them grazing contentedly in a field near his barn, none the worse for the 10-mile trek.

Just A Name Caller
TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The police radio dispatcher called Car 115 and asked:

"Did you escort an emergency O.B. case to the hospital last night?"

"Yes," the officer replied. "What's your full name?"

The officer answered "Howard Richard Bennett, Why?"

The dispatcher explained "The mother is naming the boy after you."

Adlai Heads West in Final Stretch Push

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson—who says he is "good and mad"—heads West today in a final stretch effort to beat President Eisenhower in the presidential race.

Stetson told audiences in suburban Nassau and Westchester counties last night that he is "not at all sure" he and his running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, have been able to put over the Democratic message to the people.

"I have tried—and Sen. Estes Kefauver has tried—to present the great national issues," the Democratic presidential nominee said. "But the plain fact is that the Republicans are waging up a campaign of deceit unmatched in U.S. politics."

"And I don't mind telling you I am good and mad. Plenty of Americans are."

The crowd cheered. Although he didn't put it directly into words, Stevenson obviously felt he was being frustrated in some respects in his efforts to interest the voters in his contention that the Republicans have come up with no ideas in four years and are trying to ride to victory on a "phony peace issue."

He told a howling crowd in the Democratic Bronx that "nothing has disgusted me more than this phony peace issue in the campaign." He demanded that Eisenhower call off the Republican exponents of this issue.

Stevenson reserved for the usually heavy Republican areas of Nassau and Westchester counties the sharpest barbs for Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon.

Traveling 110 miles around New York City and its suburbs, he spoke to seven groups, ranging in size from about 75 state labor leaders to about 10,000 in the Bronx, in a grueling 12-hour grind. Impartial observers estimated he had 36,000 listeners, plus those who caught him on television and radio.

Intense Storm Moves Across Plains; Rain And Snow in West

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Blustery weather, with rain, snow and cool air, extended over wide areas from the Dakotas to the western quarter of the country today.

An intense storm moved across the plains and brought rain to the northern and central plains with some snow in the west central plains. A fresh storm hit the Far Northwest, bringing more rain to the coastal areas and light snow in some inland sections.

But east of the Mississippi River, generally dry weather prevailed except for light rain along the Middle Atlantic Coast and in southern Florida.

The storm in the plains was followed by a surge of cool air and temperatures were 30 degrees lower than yesterday morning in parts of western Nebraska and eastern Colorado. It was below freezing with an inch of snow on the ground at Akron, Colo.

Snow fell in areas from western Montana to New Mexico. Falls ranged up to 8 inches at Rock Springs, Wyo., but a heavier blanket of snow was reported in the mountain areas of the Northwest. Salt Lake City's snowfall, measuring 6 inches, was the heaviest for so early in the season.

Now Has Assets of $236,000,000—

340th Bombardment Wing Reactivated Four Years Ago at Sedalia Air Base

Four years ago Saturday, the 340th Bombardment Wing of the Strategic Air Command was reactivated at Sedalia Air Force Base with a complement of two officers and 31 enlisted men. The total assets of the base at that time were approximately $500,000 and have grown to today's staggering assets of $236,000,000.

The 340th Bomb Wing, rich in battle tradition with an impressive combat record throughout Tunisia and Italy during World War II, was reactivated in November, 1955. Maj. John F. Turnbull, 488th Squadron Commander, was with the 340th in those days and contributed to the two Presidential Unit Citations the battle-scarred 340th won during their campaign.

Col. Leonard S. Flo was base commander in 1952 and during the initial months of reactivation, construction contracts were let for runways and parking areas, barracks, rehabilitation of many existing buildings and other required facilities.

In February, 1953, Col. Franklin K. Reyher assumed command of the Bomb Wing and Air Base Group. Sedalia Air Force Base was under the jurisdiction of the Second Air Force at that time, while the 340th Air Refueling Squadron was attached to the Fifteenth Air Force with 40 officers and 184 airmen conducting their operations at Castle Air Force Base, Calif.

By the end of October, 1953, the Wing at Sedalia had grown to the strength of 24 officers and 297 airmen and the runways and taxiways, 13 airmen's dormitories, three airmen's mess halls and other vitally needed buildings had been completed. Col. Chester C. Cox assumed command of the bomb wing at this time and Col. Reyher became base commander.

By March of 1954 much of the required construction needed for initial operation was complete and on March 26 Lt. Col. Flavel P. Sabin, commander of the 460th Bomb Squadron, landed the 340th's first B-47 at the base. Col. Cox, Lt. Col. Ralph K. Watts, commander of the 487th Bomb Squadron, and Lt. Col. Dale Benadon, then director of material, comprised the rest of Col. Sabin's crew. Earlier in February large numbers of crew members were assigned to the wing and went to McConnell Air Force Base, Kan., to obtain their B-47 transition training. The wing had grown to 256 officers and 2,256 airmen by the end of June, 1954. All this while the base was being revamped and brought up to the SAC standards.

On July 2, 1954, Col. A. J. Beck assumed command of the 340th Bomb Wing.

For the next 16 months emphasis was on training. The B-47 and KC-97 crews flew their missions with a dead seriousness, rising toward a goal of combat readiness. On July 1, 1955, the 340th Bomb Wing was transferred to the jurisdiction of the Eighth Air Force in the Strategic Air Command's geographical realignment of bases and achieved their combat readiness status at this time.

Col. Charles V. Neil, now deputy wing commander, had assumed command of the Air Base Group in January, 1955, as Col. Reyher left for assignment in Africa. Col. Neil was succeeded by Lt. Col. Harry W. Robb, in August, 1955.

In September, 1956, the Wing carried out its first deployment exercise as approximately 2,000 of the Wing personnel made a transatlantic flight and carried on their mission in the United Kingdom.

The base was renamed in October, 1955, in honor of Lt. George A. Whitman formerly of Sedalia, and the first airman to be killed in aerial combat in World War II. Dedication of the base was held Dec. 3, 1955, in an impressive ceremony with Missouri's U.S. Senator Stuart A. Symington delivering the dedication address.

The wing returned from rotation in November, 1955, and settled down to the routine, but hard and never ending combat training task that was to take them to the top over all Eighth Air Force B-47 units, when they won the Eighth's bomber stream competition Pacesetter IV in June, 1956.

In the months preceding this top performance the wing had only missed winning the previous bomber stream competitions by a very narrow margin, always near the top. Later in August, the 340th again proved they are among SAC's best by placing second over all SAC B-47 units competing in the annual SAC bombing and navigational competition at Lockbourne Air Force Base, Ohio, and placed fourth in the overall "World Series of Bombing" that included competing B-36 and B-52 units. Today the 340th is the proud possessor of the Brig. Gen. Jack Roberts trophy for their winning performance in the Pacesetter IV bomber stream competition, and stands ready to win the second leg on the coveted trophy in Pacesetter V.

Today the 340th Bomb Wing with nearly 4,000 proven military and civilian personnel joins other combat ready SAC units to assure the United States its second decade of security through global air power.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Hazel Parker, who became a grandmother last week at 33, has entered the hospital for the birth of what her doctor thinks will be twins.

Her 17-year-old daughter, Mrs. Ima Jean Kilpatrick, is still in the hospital with her daughter born Oct. 19.

Country Cousins

Cabbage and its cousins, broccoli and cauliflower, are all plentiful in supply now. Production of both cabbage and cauliflower is above that of last year and broccoli is in ample supply. This is one of the months that these "cousins" can be seen on the market in the top of quality and they can add zip to autumn meals at reasonable prices.

Both broccoli and cauliflower provide generous amounts of vitamin C. Both furnish some iron and riboflavin. Broccoli is also famous for vitamin A.

Cabbage is a valuable source of vitamin C (½ cup shredded cabbage will furnish one-third of the daily vitamin C needs) if served raw. One-half cup cooked cabbage (four-fifths cup raw) will also provide approximately the same amount of this vitamin, provided it is cooked a short time with little water.

Cauliflower heads may be large or small. A jacket of bright green fresh leaves is a sign that the head is fresh. The flowerettes are clean, compact and creamy white with very little waste. One pound provides about three one-half cup servings.

Broccoli clusters may be one to three inches across and stems thin or thick. Choose dark green or purplish green stalks that are firm and tender with compact buds. Plan on three ½-cup servings per pound.

Cabbage heads that are firm with outer leaves which are green and crisp are a good choice. Cabbage comes in many colors, red, purple, green or white. Usually the red varieties are a little higher than the others. One pound cleaned cabbage yields eight servings raw and four servings cooked.

To make sure that full quota of vitamin C is retained in cabbage, cut it with a sharp knife and avoid bruising. The outer green leaves of cabbage contain more vitamin C than the inner white ones, so discard them only when wilted badly or damaged. Use a small amount of water for cooking these vegetables and speed them to the table. Vitamin C is water soluble so the water in which these vegetables are cooked should be used. Add dressings to salads of these vegetables just before serving to prevent vitamin C loss. Cook them quickly and serve them promptly; be sure not to overdo the cooking.

Hints on Cauliflower

To Deep Fry: Break heads into flowerettes, wash and dry carefully. Dip in fine bread crumbs, beaten egg and crumbs again. Fry in deep fat heated to 375 degrees F. two to three minutes or until tender and golden.

Cauliflower leaves: Save them, sprinkle with salt, pepper, fresh lemon juice and serve like celery. Or dip them in Russian dressing. Or shred them with scissors and tuck them into a green salad. Or cook the leaves, serve them and other greens with simple butter.

Cooking With Cider

This is the time of year when delicious cider is available for a refreshing beverage and for use in cooking. Many homemakers like its flavor when used in recipes for cakes, puddings, pie fillings, and gelatin desserts and salads. Also, cider may be used with eggs, meat and in a wide range of vegetable and fruit dishes.

There are three types of cider—pasteurized, preserved and fresh pressed. They vary somewhat in "cookability." But cider that is clarified and pasteurized is the best and easiest to use. Boiling cider accents the flavor. This is advisable for cakes, and for use with strong flavored vegetables and fruits, and with meats.

Boiling reduces the quantity by one-half cup in seven minutes in any quantity up to three cups. For extra strong accent, such as for use with meat, boil the cider 15 minutes. This will reduce the quantity by approximately one cup.

The exact quantity of sugar required in a cider recipe depends largely on the degree of tartness of the cider. If the cider is very sweet and tartness is desired, as for salads, one to two tablespoons of lemon juice may be added.

Overcooking Meat Increases Cost
Watch the temperature when you cook that roast—and also how long you cook it. Cooking meat too long and too high a temperature causes it to shrink. This results in fewer servings with higher cost per serving.

A test at Michigan State College showed that a 10-pound cut of beef roast lost two to three portions, or servings, when it was pot-roasted for an hour past the well done stage. And overcooking produces loss of flavor, appearance and aroma. High temperature and overcooking of any meat would result in similar losses. So keep the temperature low when cooking meat and cook only until done.

Protect Wool Garment From Perspiration

Wool suits and dresses are coming out of mothballs these days and are being hung in a handy place in the clothes closet. Even though this may be the second or third year for some of these garments, a freshly cleaned, well pressed wool garment can give you that feeling of being well dressed, for wool is among the most durable and beautiful of all clothing fabrics.

To keep woollens fresh and attractive, protect them from underarm perspiration by using dress shields. Perspiration causes wool fabrics—and indeed nearly all fabrics—to change color and tends to rot them. Dress shields should be washed often to assure complete cleanliness. These handy aids to good grooming come in many sizes and kinds. Many of them come with pins attached all ready to put in with a minimum of time and effort.

Rest Tired Feet

House work takes a lot of foot work—and tired, aching feet can make the world look blue. But you can avoid tired feet by short rest periods. Take a little time out in the middle of a busy morning and bathe the feet in tepid water allowing them to remain in the water until it is cold. Then dry and give them an alcohol rub and dust with cornstarch or a foot powder.

If time is short, remove shoes and hose and give the feet a brisk rubbing. Exercise the toes by pulling each one gently. This tends to relax the feet.

Be sure the size hose you wear is long enough to give toes plenty of room. Your everyday shoes

Leroy Van Dyke Makes Record Of Own Song

Leroy Van Dyke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Dyke, Route 1, Smithton, has written a song, the words and music of which he recorded on a Dot Label Record. The record was released Thursday Oct. 11. The song is "Auctioneer."

Leroy was graduated from Smith-Cotton High School in 1947 and later from the University of Missouri. Between his junior and senior year at the university he attended auctioneer school during the summer in Decatur, Ill. After graduation from the university he went into service and served two years in Korea. It was while he was in Korea that he wrote the song, "Auctioneer."

When he was in college Leroy was a member of the University Men's Glee Club and he has been in church choirs. He always loved to sing and it was through singing his song that he had the opportunity to have it recorded.

Van Dyke is field man for the Corn Belt Dailies, which include the St. Louis Stock Reporter, Kansas Drovers Telegram, Chicago Drovers Journal and a paper in Omaha. He works out of the Chicago office on advertising sales and resides in Princeton, Ill.

This isn't the only song Leroy has written, but it is the first he has had recorded.

'Installment Buying' Is Program Topic

"Installment Buying" was the program of the Progressive Extension Club which met at the home of Mrs. Don Hunter, Mrs. Wayne Miller was assistant hostess.

The program was presented by Mrs. Steve Hackler, who stated that buying on installment is more expensive than paying cash. In some instances, it is better to borrow money and pay interest than use the installment plan. She also urged everyone to read the "fine print" before signing an installment contract.

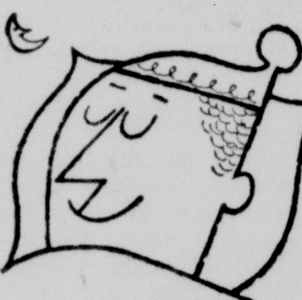

The devotional was given by Mrs. Ralph Hodges. A thrift practice was given for roll call. Games were played before refreshments were served to 16 members and one visitor.

The November meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Charley Fisher.

Tigers Hoping For a Win At Homecoming

By Vic Van Dyne
Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow, who has been shown some good football on several occasions, hopes for the perfect night when the Tigers tackle the Jefferson City Jays this Friday at the Jennie Jaynes Memorial Stadium. This being Sedalia's homecoming it should help boost the morale of the players after the drubbing they received last week from Columbia.

Jeff City has a perfect record this season and are leading the Central Missouri Conference. The Jays have a strong running attack with Don Webb and Melvin West the leading ball carriers.

Smith-Cotton will have Charles Newman back in the lineup Friday night after being out several days due to illness. The Tigers seem to have everybody in good shape except for Dick Sklar, who is nursing a bad shoulder.

The football players elected a queen for this Homecoming who is Nan Ferguson. Barbara Kelley and Linda Vedder are her attendants.

Here is a little note for you fans that don't want to attend the game because of the dust. The Sedalia Fire Department is going to water the field all day Wednesday for the sake of the players and the fans.

Maryland Coach Says Olympic Team Is Better

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—This year's U. S. Olympic basketball team, to the seasoned eye of Maryland Coach Bud Millikan, is "much better" than the one that brought home a championship from the international games at Helsinki in 1952.

"They're the world's champions, all right," Millikan said today. Millikan and Bill Reinhart of George Washington University coached a team of Eastern College All Stars that fell victim to the Olympians last night, 82-62. It was the third straight victory in a 10-game exhibition series for the squad that will represent the United States at next month's games at Melbourne, Australia.

The All-Stars kept the Olympians hopping for almost three-quarters of the game before an announced crowd of 10,000 at the University of Maryland field house. But after tying the score 40-40 on a rebound poke by West Virginia's Lloyd Sharrar, they fell before the shooting of Jim Walsh and his Melbourne-bound teammates.

Durocher Wants Big Offer to Go Back to Baseball

NEW YORK (AP)—Leo Durocher may be an old fire hose champion at the bit, but it'll take a four-alarm to get him back to baseball.

All The Lip wants to fill Cleveland's managerial vacancy — if the job is offered — is a yearly salary ranging somewhere near $100,000 and a piece of the club. The Indians, apparently, can keep the program concession.

Durocher, who retired after managing the New York Giants in 1955, says he's happy drawing

S-C Tigers 'B' Team Wins 20-6 Over Marshall

The Smith-Cotton Tigers "B" team won another game Monday on the Marshall gridiron when they defeated the Junior Owls by a score of 20-6.

Quarterbacked by Bob Garrison, the Tigers dominated the play throughout the game. Sedalia's backfield was backed by lineplay of hard blocking and tackling. It was a good game from the start to the finish in spite of the touchdown edge of the Tigers.

Jim Kresse, was the only "B" starter who was out of the game, having received a head injury last Saturday morning while playing the Columbia Kewpies "B" team.

Also Monday, the Tiger Freshmen lost an exciting game to Marshall by a 6-12 score.

The "B" squad will meet Columbia on Saturday morning.

Notre Dame's Coach Faces Big Decision

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Coach Terry Brennan of Notre Dame faces one of his biggest football decisions today—whether or not to shift quarterback Paul Hornung to halfback and use an untested sophomore as field general against Oklahoma.

Hornung leads the Irish in rushing, scoring, passing, punting, kickoffs returned, passes broken up, playing-time and is second in number of tackles made.

The thumb on his left hand was hit while he was making a tackle in the second quarter of last Saturday's game, which was won 47-14 by Michigan State.

"The thumb was dislocated and we taped it up as soon as we could," said Brennan, whose Irish now have lost two straight and three out four starts.

"He played the second half and I knew it was hurting him. By Sunday it had swollen badly. This week I have given him a rest—he's only been passing and running a little. He hasn't been able to take the snap-back from center."

"Today I will decide definitely if he can take the ball from center well enough to play quarterback. Otherwise we'll shift him to halfback. I feel that he will have less chances of aggravating the injury in taking hand-offs than in taking snap-backs."

Brennan emphasized that he would not move Hornung from quarterback unless it was absolutely necessary. If the switch is made, Bobby Williams, a 185-pound, 6-foot-2 sophomore from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., will be used. Williams has never played a game for Notre Dame.

The No. 2 quarterback, senior Larry Cooke, is being counted out with a sprained ankle.

a reported $100,000 a year as a television executive in Hollywood. But he announced yesterday he'll be glad to hear a proposition from Hank Greenberg, Cleveland general manager.

"The Indians need a replacement for the 'resigned' Al Lopez, who pulled down a reported $40,000 a year as manager."

Greenberg, in New York on business, disclosed he and Leo had talked over the preliminaries via long-distance telephone. He'll go to the West Coast to meet with Durocher Monday.

"Durocher told me he was interested in returning to baseball," said Greenberg. "And since I certainly want to get the best man available, naturally I want to talk to him."

Said Leo: "If Greenberg has an offer, it better be a whopper."

Sooner Coach Hopes Twins Give Mileage

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson is hoping for lots of mileage Saturday from his touchdown twins, Tommy McDonald and Clendon Thomas—if the Sooner line can outcharge Notre Dame's.

Wilkinson is well aware that line play probably will be the deciding factor in the nationally televised battle at South Bend. He is counting on his injury-dented forward wall to bring Oklahoma its first victory over the Irish after two defeats.

Probably more than any other player, he is depending on Jerry Tubbs, 21-year-old 205-pound senior from Breckenridge, Tex., who is anchoring Oklahoma's line for the second straight year.

Tubbs is without doubt one of the most talented football players of the 10-year Wilkinson regime.

In 1954 as a sophomore, he was converted to fullback and started the final eight games of the season. Last year with the departure of All-America center Kurt Burris, Tubbs was moved back to center where he performed brilliantly.

"He could play almost any position on the team," enthuses the usually reserved Wilkinson.

The quiet, soft-spoken Sooner is best known for his crushing tackles and alert play as a defensive linebacker, but Wilkinson says Tubbs is every bit as good at blocking when he's playing center on offense.

Wilkinson still is moaning the loss of two linemen, tackle Wayne Greenlee and guard Ken Northcutt, and he's afraid his line may not be able to spring McDonald and Thomas loose against Notre Dame for their customary touchdown jaunts.

But while he won't admit it, Wilkinson clearly indicates a belief that Oklahoma will have the best lineman on the field—Jerry Tubbs.

Moore, Patterson Will Sign Contract For November Bout

CHICAGO (AP)—Archie Moore, lightweight champion, and Floyd Patterson are to have a formal contract signing today for their 15-round heavyweight title bout in Chicago Stadium Nov. 30.

The battle for Rocky Marciano's vacated crown will be televised. James D. Norris, president of the International Boxing Club has said previously the fighters will receive 30 per cent each of all revenue from the gate, television and movies.

The TV sponsor (Gillette) reportedly has agreed to pay $175,000 to air the fight via NBC.

Moore and Patterson plan to return to their respective bases, San Diego and New York, after the signing.

Rebels Hold Defense Lead Of Major Teams

NEW YORK (AP)—Mississippi's Rebels were surprised by Tulane 10-14 Saturday but the setback didn't stop them from taking over the defense lead among the major college football teams.

In breaking Princeton's 2-week grip on the total defense lead, the Rebels yielded only 177 yards.

NCAA service bureau figures released today show the Southeastern title defenders first in total defense with a 126.4-yard average allowance to five opponents and Princeton second on 151.3, given up to four rivals.

Ole Miss also took over first place in pass defense with an average of 22.8 yards a game compared to Texas Christian's 23.5 for second place.

In four games, TCU has permitted only 176 per cent of opposing aerials to be completed, batting down 24 of 40 throws and intercepting nine.

In rushing defense Princeton is on top with a mark of holding its opponents to an average of 95 yards a game. Michigan State is second with 97.3.

Tulsa of the Missouri Valley ranks fourth on total defense giving up an average of 177 yards per game.

Oklahoma is No. 5, showing an allowance of 177.5 yards in four games.

The Sooners, despite giving up but 12.3 yards rushing a game are ranked No. 8 in that department.

Iowa State is No. 7 on pass defense and Nebraska No. 10.

The Cyclones have yielded an average of 47 yards and the Cornhuskers 48.8 in five games.

Homer Hobbs, Furman football coach, formerly coached the Navy line. He also played with the San Francisco 49ers under Ed Erdelatz, current Navy coach.

Teenettes Stun Warsaw Here Wednesday 30-16

Sedalia's Teenettes scored as they wished Wednesday night in pinning a 30-16 trouncing on a Warsaw team in girls' volleyball at the Whittier School gymnasium here.

The Teenettes plan a return game with their victims in the near future.

Next Tuesday night the Sedalians will go against a Hughesville girls' team there.

Teenettes coach Walter McMillen called a practice session for his squad for Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the Horace Mann gymnasium. He also announced he has obtained Henry Sutton to assist him in managing and coaching the Teenettes.

Ted Williams, Musial Still Lead Batting

NEW YORK (AP)—Boston's Ted Williams and Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals continue to boast the highest lifetime batting averages in the major leagues with 19 other players hitting .300 or better.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press show that Williams' lifetime mark remained at .348, while Musial's average dropped two points to .340. Williams hit .345 for the year and Musial .330.

Williams, who began his career with Boston in 1939 and then did two stints in service, never has batted under .300. The 38-year-old outfielder has captured four league batting championships, his top mark being .406 in 1941.

Musial, 35, completing his 14th season with St. Louis, also never has finished below .300. He has played both the outfield and first base, has won six batting titles, hitting three straight from 1950-52. His highest average was .376 in 1948.

Twelve active National League players, among those who have participated in at least 300 games, own .300 or better averages, Hank Aaron of Milwaukee and Pittsburgh's Bill Virdon moved into this elite category as a result of their 1956 performances.

Aaron, the league's batting champion, hit .328 to boost his lifetime average from .299 to .310. Virdon, in only his sophomore year, reached .301 at bats and an even .300 average.

Wally Moon of the Cards was the lone player to drop out of the .300 class. Moon batted .298 this past season and saw his lifetime mark fall from .300 to .299.

Dale Mitchell, veteran Cleveland and Brooklyn outfielder, compiled a .312 average before he retired earlier this week.

Nine American League batters are over .300 lifetime, with only one change resulting from the 1956 figures. Cleveland's Bobby Avila fell from the select ranks, while Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees moved into the .300 group.

Avila hit .224 this past season and his lifetime mark skidded from .300 to .299. Mantle, the league's batting kingpin at .353, lifted his career average from .298 to .308.

Bob Lemon of the Cleveland Indians is the fourth American League pitcher in history to win 20 games

DAVIS TELEVISION ANTENNA

Dragnet Actor Has New Role In Picture

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ben Alexander looked natural enough, playing the sidekick to a law enforcer. But there was a difference. He was playing a deputy sheriff, not officer Frank Smith of TV's Dragnet.

His buddy was not Sgt. Joe Friday, alias Jack Webb, but Jeff Chandler instead.

But the most shocking thing was—Alexander was drunk!

All this was in a movie scene, of course—Universal-International's "Pay the Devil." The scene had Alexander, as an erring deputy, getting drunk on duty at the insistence of the heavy.

"If my partner (Webb) could see me now, he'd kill me," Alexander laughed.

He was obviously having the time of his life—and no wonder. It was his first film role aside from Dragnet in 22 years!

"The last picture I made was right on this lot," he reflected. "That was in 1934. After that I went with NBC and I've been with them ever since."

Ben's film career dates back to the first World War, when he appeared as a child actor with D. W. Griffith. He grew up in pictures during the '20s, playing in whole-some films like "Penrod and Sam" and "Boy of Mine."

His big break as a young man came in 1930, when he appeared in "All Quiet on the Western Front."

"Universal wanted to sign me to a term contract," he recalled. "But Lewis Milestone, the director of the picture, advised me to hold out until it was released, then I'd get offers from all the studios."

"So what happened? The picture was released and nobody could tell us apart in those uniforms, except for Lew Ayres. I didn't work for two years!"

Later he went into radio as an announcer and quiz master, edging into TV after the war. His association with Webb turned out to be a golden one for all concerned. Now at 45, Ben is better known than he ever was as a kid star.

He's on a sabbatical from Dragnet right now, since enough films have been made to run through mid-1957.

Man Often Gives $100 To Persons Who Quit Smoking for a Year

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Col. Mahlon N. Haines is back, folks, so don't be surprised if someone steps up to you and offers you $100 to throw away your cigarette or $100 to quit smoking for a year.

That's what the retired show manufacturer from York, Pa., often does. He practices what he preaches, for he's a non-smoker and drinker.

He spends his winters here and the thing of which he's the proudest is the four home runs he hit in last year's kids and kubs baseball play (for persons 75 and over). The colonel is 81.

Space-Minded Clergy Wants City to Permit 'Flying Saucer' Drop

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A space-minded clergyman with earthly reasons wants the city commission to permit "flying saucers" to be dropped on the city.

The Rev. John Longworth requested the action, explaining that dropping the objects from an airplane would help promote a youth revival meeting.

Mr. Longworth, pastor of the Covington Revival Center, didn't explain the nature of the "saucers." City manager Oscar Hesch was directed to obtain a sample model before action is taken on the request.

Houston Police to Use Night Sticks Again

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Houston police are going to get their nightsticks back. Chief Carl Shuprine said he is requesting purchase of 55 billys for patrolmen and any other officers who feel they need them. Houston police have not used night sticks since World War II, when most of the supply was issued to the home defense guard.

Farmland Value Has 3 Per Cent Increase; Florida Is Highest

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmland generally was regarded as a good buy during the year ended last July—there was an average three per cent increase in farmland value over the nation.

The changes in value ranged from a 15 per cent rise in Florida to a 5 per cent decline in Colorado, a new Agriculture Department report says.

Farmers continue to be the most important single group of buyers of farm real estate, obtaining 65 per cent of all farms sold, the report shows.

However, non-farmers bought a larger share of farmland than usual, accounting for 50 per cent or more of all transfers in states outside the corn belt and northern plains regions.

On July 1 farmland values stood unchanged from those of a year earlier in three states—Utah, New Mexico and Kansas.

Florida's increase of 15 per cent was considerably more than that of any other state.

Increases for other states included: Arkansas, 7 per cent; Oklahoma and Missouri, 3 per cent; Nebraska, 2 per cent.

New Programs Have Appeal To All Ages

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Three new weekly television programs which I happen to enjoy have given me new insight into myself.

I am, it seems, about 14 years old and find great glamor in the military tradition. I believe death preferable to dishonor. I am always loyal to my friends and true to the fine ideals presented to me in my more vulnerable years. I have a pure mind in a strong body and I enjoy taking great risks when the cause is worthy.

Ah, a friend in the front row is shaking his head, saying, "This is not I. No, sir, it is not, except when I'm watching West Point (CBS-TV) on Friday evenings or Bengal Lancers (NBC-TV) on Sunday evenings or Sir Lancelot (NBC-TV) on Monday evenings."

These are three of the most brightly polished and technically well-executed of the new series this season. In their cognizance of romantic love and derring-do they might be called "adult juveniles" or "juvenile adults" because they make a frank appeal to many between the ages of 8 and 80.

It is interesting that all are concerned with arms and men, or what might be called the military tradition in man. Bengal Lancers and Sir Lancelot are as preoccupied with physical violence as any Western, but because time and place have been changed they do not chafe the viewer with long familiarity. No moralist has complained about their effect on the young—and almost certainly none will.

Yet to those of us who remember the 1930s there is something bemusing in our middle-aged passive acceptance of the glorification of soldiering and war. Times certainly do change. There is not much you can tell our generation about war, but here we sit before our sets, fascinated. Times change and memories are short.

Deer Rolls to Hunter

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP)—When Don Anderson, head of the sports department at this deluxe resort goes hunting, he does it in deluxe style.

He reported he shot a four-point buck deer on a ridge above nearby Trail Creek.

The deer lurched forward and rolled down the hill—stopping within three feet of the tail gate of his vehicle.

Estes and Adlai To Swap Notes On the Campaign

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver headed today for a meeting with Democratic standard bearer Adlai Stevenson to swap notes on a campaign he says is "picking up fast."

The Democratic vice presidential candidate confers with Stevenson in Springfield, Ill., after 10 days and 8,000 miles of a coast-to-coast aerial swing from Vermont to California and back East gain through the Midwest.

Kefauver told newsmen he found growing Democratic strength.

Speaking at Springfield, Ohio, today at a rally at the city square, Kefauver said Republican "boasts" of peace and prosperity are just talk about "a shaky peace, unsteady prosperity and no progress at all."

"There are a few, of course, who are enjoying unprecedented prosperity under Eisenhower and Nixon," he said. "But they are the pets of this special interest administration—the big stockholders, and bankers and the corporation executives."

"The average American citizen doesn't have a pass to the White House."

Kefauver said he has found that "people everywhere are worried about what has happened to our country under a part-time president."

"They are even more gravely concerned over the prospect that if the Republicans are re-elected, Richard Nixon would become the dominant figure in the party."

"Some of them may like Ike, but Ike can't succeed himself. Richard Nixon would wield the

Officer Is Target While Giving Ticket

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Traffic officer W. L. Williams was minding his own business writing parking tickets for autos in front of an office building when—zing!—he was bombarded with a flurry of wire staples.

Furious, but unable to locate the source of the flying missiles, he called in another policeman to set a trap.

Setting himself up as a target again, Williams caught another barrage. But fellow officer R. L. Potter spotted two men flipping the staples from a window with rubber bands. The pair was arrested and fined $12 each.

A portion of leftover Harvard beets may be added to an envelope of onion soup to advantage. If the beets are sliced, chop them; if they are shoestring shape, leave them as is. Make up the soup according to package directions and simmer the beets (with any sauce) with it, then add sugar and lemon juice to taste. Serve with a topping of sour cream. If it is available, or with whipped cream to which salt and a little lemon juice has been added.

Better Times
Are Predicted
By Executives

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Better times ahead are predicted today by a wide sampling of business leaders.

They aren't talking in general terms about long-term possibilities for the economy as a whole but about what they expect in the next few weeks or months for their own companies or industries. The sampling includes the fields of steel, chemicals, textiles, home building, appliances, TV, movie theaters, women's wear and distilling.

Auto makers too are out today with glowing predictions of better days ahead for them. But this is usual with them at the start of a new model year.

Steel executives are among the leading optimists. Latest to join the chorus is Joel Hunter, president of Crucible Steel, who expects the current quarter to be one of his company's best. This should offset a strike-slowed third quarter and bring sales for the year to a record high.

The chemical industry will continue its spectacular growth, Dr. Charles Allen Thomas, president of Monsanto Chemical, predicts. And he sees a new era of technological advance just ahead: cheap conversion of salt water into fresh, harnessing of energy from the sun, cheaper building materials, cost cuts in making chemicals.

Home appliance sales still can rise 20 per cent to top five billion dollars this year, in the view of Judson S. Sayre, president of Norge Division of Borg-Warner. The trick: Use better selling methods.

TV set sales in the final three months of this year can top those in the same period of 1955, Dr. W. R. G. Baker, vice-president of General Electric, believes.

The lagging home building industry will revive next spring, predicts Norman Strunk, executive vice president of the United States Savings & Loan League.

The textile industry will be doing better from now on, says Leon Lowenstein, chairman of M. Lowenstein & Sons. He sees a notable pickup in business at the store level in both men's and women's garments and yard goods for home sewing.

At the primary level of the textile industry, Anderson, Clayton & Co., a big cotton firm of Houston, reports a marked gain in its foreign operations, which more than offsets a drop in domestic business, which it says will be increased by the drop in cotton acreage due to the soil bank.

Sunny Side School
Holds Pie Supper

The Sunny Side Pie Supper was held Oct. 12 with a net of $175.74.

Mrs. Herbert Mowes, president, welcomed the guests and parents, then turned the program over to the teacher, Mrs. Helen Shepherd. She introduced Mrs. Routsong who directed the pupils in songs and musical numbers.

Mrs. Shepherd then introduced John Ryan, a neighbor of the community, who auctioned off the pies, candy and merchandise.

The school appreciated the merchants in Sedalia who made donations to make the pie supper a success.

Windsor Circle Meets
With Mrs. Oren Varner

The Florence Harris Circle of the Windsor Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Oren Varner with 13 members present.

The program topic, "Sowing Beside All Waters" was presented by Mrs. Frank Silver.

A gift from the circle was sent to Miss Harriet Parks, a former member of this church, who is now a student in Southwest Baptist College at Bolivar. It is planned to send an offering to the Missouri Baptist Children's Home in Pattonville in November.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and Mrs. Wilber Ross during the social hour.

The Price of Aviation Progress Is Toll
Of Human Lives That Are Often Forgotten

MAJ. RICHARD BONG: After 40 kills in the Pacific . . .

CAPT. JOSEPH McCONNELL: After 16 kills in Korea . . .

CAPT. MILBURN APT: He rode the X-2 to his death.

By KENNETH GILMORE
NEA Staff Correspondence
WASHINGTON —(NEA) —The price of aviation progress is a toll in human flesh and blood that can't be redeemed in dollars and cents—and often goes forgotten.

It's paid by men like 32-year-old Capt. Milburn Apt, who met death last September in the costly crash of the Bell X-2 rocket plane at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

Apt was a test pilot—a member of an elite fraternity of men whose trademark is courage and who have died attempting to hurdle the barriers of speeds, sound and survival, men who sometimes call themselves the "cautious dare-devils."

There's no known tally of all the test pilots who have lost their lives, but from the files of the Pentagon, from aircraft companies and from the memories of their friends, you can pick a few. They speak for the rest.

Nearly to a man they are veterans of hot wars who came back home as heroes. Take Maj. Richard Bong, the country's greatest World War II air ace who accounted for 40 Japanese planes.

Ironically, Bong was brought back to the U.S. for "safe" duty near the close of the war so as not to risk his valuable battle experience.

It was in that capacity that he was flying one of the early jet fighters, the Shooting Star P-30, on Aug. 6, 1945. Coming over the airfield at Burbank, Calif., on a test run Bong's plane wobbled, veered off and crashed half a mile away. He never had a chance.

Bong was one of the first casualties of the jet age. In the more than 10 years since his death tremendous steps have been made towards higher and faster flights.

The X-2 in which Capt. Apt took his first and last flight had established a new record of 1,900 miles per hour last July.

The man who made that world speed record is Col. Frank Everest, a close friend of Apt whom he described as "one of the best pilots in the fighter group" at Edwards AFB.

Yet at a recent meeting of the American Rocket Society in Buffalo, N.Y., Everest told rocket engineers that they "must have the guts of the people who will pioneer these flights."

"If they perish, don't lose your guts," he told them, "but continue to strive on and some day you will find you have really contributed to mankind even though you have had to sacrifice to make life much better for millions."

Everest was assigned to test the X-2 as a replacement for "Skip" Zeigler, a civilian pilot for the Bell Aircraft Corp., who on May 23, 1953, went down with the first X-2.

"Skip was all we had as a test pilot," says a Bell spokesman. "When we lost him, Col. Everest had to come into the picture."

Zeigler and Frank Wolko, 33, a flight engineer, died when the experimental research plane was blown away from its mother B-50 by an explosion over Lake Ontario.

Other civilian test pilots besides Zeigler have been victims of air accidents.

"We've had our share of losses," is how officials of most of the major aircraft companies sum it up.

An outstanding example is George Welsh, the first man to shoot down a Japanese plane at Pearl Harbor. On Oct. 13, 1954,

Little Boy
Is Shocked
To See Rain

DALLAS (AP) — Little Mike Oatman, 14 months old, ran to the window last week and looked out, then unloosed a great uproar.

"What's that? What's that?" he asked his mother excitedly.

He was seeing rain for the first time. It rained in Dallas within 14 months, but rain is still rare enough to cause children to wonder.

The rains in scattered parts of the Southwest ranged up to 7 inches last week. But in the words of Texas Agriculture Commissioner John White, "they didn't make a real dent" in the 10-year drought.

The Texas moisture was too slight to help much. Scattered to heavy rains in Oklahoma helped, but most of the state reported supplies of water still were short. Rainfall in Eastern Kansas benefited wheat. Arizona reported no significant rain. The drought was becoming severe in much of Missouri.

Even had the rains been general and heavy, agricultural experts say, they alone would not have erased the scars of 10 years of general drought. The drought was broken only by a wet season in 1949.

To restore subsoil moisture, say the experts, rains must be frequent and heavy.

The Texas rains, which caused floods around Del Rio on the Mexican border, appeared the heaviest of any in the Southwest.

Where moisture fell, it raised the level of stock water ponds. On the Rio Grande, which divides Texas and Mexico, a total gain of 4 to 5 feet was expected at Falcon Dam from the heavy Del Rio rains. Flow from the reservoir has been cut off for many weeks because the water level has been low.

Rains fell in the watersheds of the rivers supplying North Central Texas cities with water, but the soil was so dry the rains were absorbed where they fell and there are not much runoff into city reservoirs.

The prospects for rains in the Southwest in the fall and winter are not good, Weather Bureau records show.

Local Station Takes Viewers Off Networks

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The big news in local TV last week was the clobbering an independent station, KTTV, gave the networks with the first of its MGM pictures, "30 Seconds Over Tokyo."

The station snagged almost double the ratings of the three network channels during the two and a half hours of the 1944 movie. This no doubt caused consternation among the networks. Certainly there was jubilation at KTTV. "The results far exceeded our hopes," said KTTV boss Richard A. Moore. "We are delighted."

He added that the rating victory offers hope for the independent stations to compete with the networks, adding:

"Naturally it is hard for us to compete with entertainment shows. We can't afford to pay Ed Sullivan $100,000 a week for only one market. The networks can pay him that for many markets."

"But these movies can put us in a competitive position, as the ratings proved."

Moore pooh-poohed network fears that the influx of old movies will curtail creativity in TV.

"On the contrary," he said, "I think it will force the networks to create better shows."

Faced with the competition of our movies, they must come up with more imaginative programming. There must be something wrong when they lose 30 per cent of their audience in one week."

KTTV, which is owned by the Chandler newspaper interests, acquired the MGM library for 4 million dollars on a seven-year lease.

In addition, it sold the studio a quarter interest in KTTV.

Moore estimated that only about 20 of the 725 films are unusable. They date from sound to 1948. Two hundred of the best films have been reserved for the Friday night at 8 blue-ribbon showings. The others are being expended five times a week at 10:15 p.m.

Apple Tricks, Treats for Halloween

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Delicious candy apples for Halloween result from the following recipe. We've dipped many an apple in sweet mixtures for other All-hallows Eves, but this particular coating is the one that, to date, has been the most popular.

The apples are coated with a light caramel that is soft enough for easy small-fry eating. If oldsters try the apples, they'll find the caramel isn't so chewy that

The bottoms of these caramel apples are rolled in crushed peat. If you buy the panut brittle, make sure it is fresh. (You can, of course, prepare the brittle yourself from a standard recipe.) Either way, the apples take only 1/4 pound of the brittle, so you'll have the rest on hand for munching.

When you serve the apples you may want to place them around a container of candy corn. Have lots of peanuts on hand, too, for

Candidate Gives Senator Big Challenge

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A tireless 39-year-old political freshman, equipped with a double name, rapid-fire oratory and a partisan pitch, is giving Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.) the most vigorous challenge of his career.

A few months ago most California voters outside of his own county had barely heard of Richard Richards.

By this time, there are few Main Streets in the big state that haven't seen the tall, slender state senator from Los Angeles, and there probably aren't many voters who wouldn't recognize the smiling hand-pumper with wavy blond hair and boyish good looks as the Democratic nominee for the United States Senate.

Kuchel, at 46 a never-beaten of seven local and state campaigns, rolled up a two-party majority of 800,000 votes over his opponent in the June primary despite a 782,000 Democratic bulge in registration.

Undismayed and with typical self-assurance, Richards set out by plane, helicopter, auto, sound truck and on foot to wage the most intensive Democratic drive for the Senate in many years.

"I have nowhere to go but up," he said.

A recent statewide newspaper poll pegged Richards just two percentage points behind Kuchel, with 12 per cent undecided.

Kuchel has lined up with President Eisenhower consistently on foreign policy but has frequently sided with Senate Democrats on domestic issues. He likes to refer to himself as an "Independent senator."

Richards' strategy, aside from getting himself known, is to remind the voters, still 3-2 Democratic, that Kuchel after all is a Republican and, he says, "an ally of the ultraconservative, extremist wing of the Republican party."

Past Presidents Club Lunches at Arrow Rock

Mrs. T. A. Woods, Tipton, was hostess to the Past Presidents Club of the Mothers Club Oct. 10.

She entertained at Arrow Rock Tavern at a one o'clock luncheon. The table had an attractive centerpiece of fall flowers.

The past presidents attending were Mrs. O. J. Stratman, Mrs. J. E. Roark, Mrs. Preston Hays, Mrs. J. F. Potts, Mrs. Phillip Bowline, Mrs. Ira Grubb, Mrs. J. F. McVean, Mrs. Jim Briscoe, Mrs. T. A. Woods, Mrs. J. A. Conn and the present president, Mrs. E. R. Proctor.

After the luncheon the guests retired to the parlor where a short business meeting was conducted by the chairman, Mrs. Preston Hays. Mrs. Roark gave a beautiful memorial for Mrs. I. S. Ferguson, who died this year.

The hostess, Mrs. Woods, gave the history of Arrow Rock, assisted by Mrs. J. F. McVean. After this the guests were taken on a sight-seeing trip through the park and Arrow Rock.

Knob Noster Church Honors Old Members

A homecoming was held at the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Knob Noster.

Elder Lester Macrae, Carrollton, was the morning speaker.

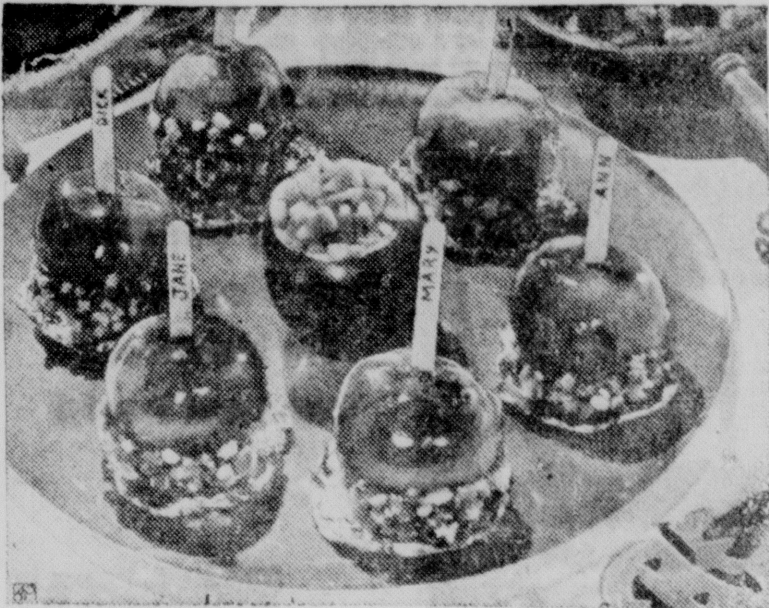

At noon a basket dinner was served in the church dining room.

In the afternoon, a musical program was given by Orlando Nace, violinist; his son, Milford Nace, celloist and Mrs. Thelma Kester, pianist. Independence, Elder John Nutt, Knob Noster gave the history of the Knob Noster Church which was organized in 1888.

Four charter members were given recognition, and were Homer Wells and Mrs. Lora Beebe, Independence; Elder W. S. Macrae, Warrensburg, and Elmer E. Pe-tree, Knob Noster.

A special candlelighting service was held by the various church departments.

Your lawn will get an earlier start in the spring if it is green when it freezes in the fall.

shelling and nibbling; offer small open bowls so that small fry will be encouraged to put peanut shells in them.

If you manage to salvage a couple of these caramel apples for grown-up folk, remove the sticks, slice into wedges and offer on a small serving plate.

PEANUT BRITTLE APPLE POPS

Ingredients: 6 medium-sized red Delicious apples (about 2 1/2 pounds), 6 wooden sticks (from drugstore) or wooden skewers (from meatman), 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup white corn syrup, 1 can sweetened condensed milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 pound peanut brittle (coarsely crushed).

Method: Wash and dry apples. Insert wooden sticks in stem end of each; if sticks are very wide, they may be broken in half lengthwise. Put sugar, corn syrup and condensed milk into a medium-sized heavy saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until 1/2 teaspoon of the mixture dropped into 1 cup of cold water forms a firm ball when picked up with fingers—in this case, 230 degrees on the candy thermometer. Remove from heat; stir in vanilla. Working quickly, dip each apple—one at a time—into the caramel, swirl apple, immediately after dipping, until coated. At once roll bottom of apple in crushed peanut brittle or press pieces of brittle quickly

Witches Ride the Halloween Cake

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

What's Halloween without a witch in the house? We've just discovered that some of the fanciest witches are the easiest to come by. Follow our directions and you'll have enough edible little sorceresses to ride a party cake.

The witches are simple to concoct. All you need are whole shelled Brazil nuts, toothpicks, orange and black gumdrops, a little black construction paper, some thin white paper and a scissors.

To save time, we made the cake upon which our witches perched from a white cake mix and frosted it with a packaged caramel frosting. The frosting is a new product and a delicious one. From its label, we see that it is made from granulated and brown sugar, caramel, starch, imitation and pure vanilla, egg yolk and salt. Simple ingredients that are all to the good—especially that pure vanilla!

You may, of course, wish to make your cake from scratch and perhaps fill and cover it with orange frosting. For the latter, make up a batch of white butter icing and stir in a few drops of yellow food coloring, then add some red food coloring—a drop at a time—until you have a pretty shade of orange.

EASY WITCH'S CAKE
Ingredients: 1 package white cake mix, 1 package (13 ounces) caramel frosting mix, shelled whole Brazil nuts, toothpicks, thin white paper, small orange gumdrops, black construction paper, small black gumdrops.

Method: Make up cake mix according to package directions in 8 or 9-inch round layer cake pans. Make up frosting mix; fill and frost cake. Insert a toothpick, straight up, into the bottom of a Brazil nut so you can use the pick to insert the witch in the cake. (Use round toothpicks with pointed ends, not the flat picks.) Break another toothpick in half; insert one half into front middle of nut and other half into back middle of nut to resemble broom. Cut a strip of white paper about 1½ inches wide. After fringing one side of paper with scissors, wrap paper around end of back half of toothpick and stick with glue to form "straw" part of broom. Stick a small orange gumdrop on a bit of toothpick and insert in top of nut for the head; insert another bit of toothpick into gumdrop for a nose. Make hat-brim by cutting out a small round piece of black construction paper (you can use a dime or penny to guide your cutting) and sticking it on top of gumdrop head. If you moisten the gumdrop a bit the paper will stick. Slightly moisten the bottom of a small black cone-shaped gumdrop

Note: Place whole unshelled Brazil nuts in a hot (425 degrees) oven for about 15 minutes; crack

Mark the Urban Area Highway Ballot

Interest of Sedalia voters in the November 6 election may be centered on the national and state political party tickets. In addition there will be ballots to be marked for or against three constitutional amendments and another on the Non-partisan Judicial Court selections.

But of particular import to voters of this community will be the ballot on the Urban Area Highway plan.

Evidence in the past indicates that many voters in a general election do not take the trouble to vote on issues other than political, and toss supplementary ballots on the floor.

This we hope does not occur with the Urban Area ballot. It involves a strictly local matter of great importance to the community because it provides for urban highway development here the next ten years.

As previously reviewed in this column, the project was drawn up by traffic and safety engineers of the State Highway Commission after long and definitive survey of local conditions. They are in accordance with federal and state specifications, and will be administered by the State Highway Commission. This means letting contracts to the lowest qualified bidder under laws governing such procedure, strict adherence to specifications, and satisfactory work performance.

The Urban Plan for Sedalia ties in with the special law of the United States Congress authorizing such projects. The state will spend $2,200,000 of federal and state urban highway funds whereas Sedalia's portion will be only $250,000.

It is imperative that Sedalia voters recognize the significance of marking the Urban Highway ballot which will be handed them by election clerks November 6, and the importance of casting this ballot along with the others.

By approving the $250,000 bond issue Sedalians will not be buying a pig in a poke, neither will they be making themselves a party to any political prestidigitiation. No one yet has accused the Missouri State Highway Department of indulging in such skulduggery.

An honest presentation of the facts about the Urban Area plan has been presented before to the citizens of Sedalia, and will be presented once again between now and November 6. Citizens are urged to study this plan with an open mind to learn the benefits it provides which of necessity must be attended to as a solution of our growing traffic problems.

Approval by the people November 6 of the $250,000 bond issue will mean the local highway construction program will get under way without Sedalia being on the tag end of federal and state highway building projects which have already been approved by the Congress and by the state.

Southern Editors Have Diverse Opinions

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—A tour of Deep South thinking on the issues of the 1956 political campaign provides many contrasts and many surprises.

In a nation-wide poll of election trends as seen by editors of daily newspapers receiving this column through NEA Service, these were some of the views volunteered from Dixie:

"Peace, Prosperity and States' Rights."—W. J. Missett, Suffolk, Va., News-Herald.

"See only nominal differences between the parties nationally, but believe Stevenson would be more aggressive in constructive programs."—Spencer Murphy, Salisbury, N. C., Post.

"Democrats are less likely to try to force integration."—T. M. Diggs, New Bern, N. C., Sun Journal.

"Because of the stand of both candidates on segregation, we are supporting neither one. We are backing an independent slate of electors, pledged to vote for a candidate other than Eisenhower or Stevenson."—H. D. Osteen, Sumter S. C., Daily Item.

"Segregation is overplayed as a national issue. South knows present trend inevitably slated to continue regardless of party in power."—Sylvan H. Meyer, Gainesville, Ga., Daily Times.

"Foreign policy is now wishy-washy."—Quimby Melton Sr., Griffin, Ga., Daily News.

Announcing that his paper is switching support from Eisenhower in 1952 to a write-in campaign for Coleman Andrews in 1956, J. W. Gore, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Daily News, gives the reason as "Republican acceptance of New Deal philosophies and too much spending, especially on foreign aid."

"Eisenhower failed to keep pledge on TVA, farm policy and development of natural resources."—Louis A. Eckl, Florence, Ala., Times and Tri-Cities Daily.

"We feel Eisenhower administration more interested in national welfare, while opponents base most of their appeal on political expediency."—Brainerd Cooper, Chattanooga, Tenn., News-Free Press.

"Stevenson and Kefauver will provide the leadership needed, both at home and abroad."—Coleman A. Harwell, Nashville, Tenn., Tennessean.

"Supporting neither candidate. There are no issues. Same old eyewash. Both favor putting Negroes in schools."—Frederick Sullens, Jackson, Miss., Daily News.

The three principal issues are "Integration, Inflation and Integrity," says C. E. Faulk, Ruston, La., Daily Leader.

The three principal issues are "Prosperity, Segregation and Peace," says the Alexandria, La., Daily Town Talk.

"Eisenhower has at least slowed down the trend towards centralized government."—R. S.

Guest Editorial—

PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN: Dangers of Night Driving. The U. S. Army is acutely aware of its responsibility for the safety of its peace-time soldiers. It is tragic to send word that "the war department regrets" the unnecessary death of a man in uniform. For this reason the First Army has ruled that its district, which includes New Jersey and New York, is "out of bounds" after dark for soldiers driving to and from their posts on leave.

The safety director at Fort Dix says that the rule aims to "eliminate the dawn-dash driving that has killed and maimed so many of our soldiers." The man on leave is in a hurry to get where he is going, and may be in an equal hurry to get back before his time runs out. He may be tired before he starts and more tired when he returns. He may be unwilling to waste his leave in sleeping, and he may do some drinking.

Exactly the same factors make nighttime driving dangerous for others than soldiers. The Army has the authority to do something about it. The civilian driver is expected to police himself, and ought to be sensible enough to take the Army's word for it that driving after dark is dangerous if the man at the wheel is weary, too much in a hurry or even a trifle intoxicated.

Dean Hot Springs, Ark., Sentinel Record and New Era.

"We believe in States' Rights and do not believe in New Dealism or socialism."—J. Q. Mahaffey, Texarkana, Tex., Gazette.

"Afraid Democratic policies will accelerate inflation."—Houston Harte Jr., San Angelo, Tex., Standard-Times.

"We are normally Democratic—independent variety. Both parties are bidding to buy the farm and labor votes. Republicans failed to halt inflation, but don't believe Democrats would try, so where are we?"—J. Kenneth Hogue, Dalhart, Tex., Texan.

"Prolonged drought in this area will be a big factor governing vote."—Jim Lines, Chickasha, Okla., Express.

"Farmers need a renewal of confidence that government is actively interested in their welfare."—Wallace Kidd, Anadarko, Okla., News.

Finally, an editor who asks that he be not identified explains that, "I'd rather be a live coward than a dead hero. I lean toward Ike in an overwhelmingly Democratic area of Dixie. But I just can't stomach Stevenson's promises."

Experiment In Schools

An experimental school of steel that may save cities, counties and school districts a lot of money is now being built in Gary, Ind.

At first glance this may not sound too exciting, but it could prove to be a highly important development for the future of education in this country.

All politics and proposals aside, the real key to today's pressing shortage of school room space is the high cost of construction.

That's why educators are keeping an interested eye on this economy project. The six-room, one-story Hosford Park Grade School will cost about $50,000 less than a brick building of the same size, according to the trustee of the local township financing the school.

Further, its builders say that the steel structure is faster to put up, cuts down on maintenance and assures more safety from fire.

If this undertaking proves to be one half as good as it sounds, it should be welcome news to all parents. And it deserves the close attention of those who are sincerely interested in finding a real solution to the problem of crowded classrooms.

Yale Prefers Bulldogs

Dr. A. Whitney Griswold, president of Yale University, has discounted reports that old Eli is about to extend its policy of co-education in its graduate school to its undergraduates.

There was great rejoicing on the campus. The boys gather down at Mary's the place they love so well to sing their Whiffenpoff song, won't have to be hampered by the sweater set.

The boys who sing the Bull Dog song and root for Eli Yale, like their girls to come from home towns or the girl colleges in the surrounding area. They definitely do not want such disturbing influences on the campus and in the classrooms where they are expected to pursue their intellectual interests.

"Three cheers for Prexy Griswold!" who has squelched the suggestion that the undergraduate school at Yale become co-educational. So say the boys of Eli.

Thought for Today—

Seek ye out of the book of the Lord, and read: no one of these shall fail, none shall want her mate: for my mouth it hath commanded, and his spirit it hath gathered them. —Isaiah 34:16.

We account the Scriptures of God to be the most sublime philosophy. I find more sure marks of authenticity in the Bible than in any profane history whatever.

The World Today—

Khrushchev Got Depleted Inheritance

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia lost her absolute control of world communism before Stalin died in 1953, when Marshal Tito broke away in 1948, and thrived, and the Red Chinese took over China one year later.

Nikita Khrushchev, Red party boss in Russia, and the other heirs of Stalin are being pointed to now as the men who let Russia's iron grip on the satellites slip away.

But when Khrushchev last February, in his speech downgrading Stalin, conceded there are various roads to socialism he was only recognizing a reality and trying to make the best of a depleted inheritance.

This was the reality:

The 200 million Russians couldn't hope to make a satellite of the 500 million Chinese whose leaders had fought almost alone for more than 20 years. Tito's successful defiance of Russia was an incentive to others too.

After the example set by Tito and Red China, it was inevitable that sooner or later some of Russia's European satellites, all strongly nationalistic, should try to assert some independence.

As it turned out, the Poles and Hungarians have just made the try.

The irony for the new Kremlin is that—by encouraging nationalism in the non-Communist Middle East to wreck Western influence

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Four of a caravan of "hunger marchers" headed for Jefferson City from Kansas City were jailed here Saturday night when a spokesman speaking from a truck on West Main in the 700 block made a verbal attack on Mayor S. B. Kennon. His remarks brought action by Sheriff Tom Herrick, and the other three were in custody for investigation. A large crowd had assembled and after the meeting was broken up the "marchers," traveling in trucks, moved eastward on Highway 50 for the state capitol.

The Gearhart and Hopper grocery, Main and Quincy, was burglarized, a considerable amount of groceries and meats being stolen.

M. O. Stevens, Sedalia, was elected overseer of the Missouri Grange at its annual meeting held at Palmyra.

A. P. Boles, representing the agricultural department of the Missouri Pacific Railway spent the past week in Sedalia and Warsaw working with the county agents.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Leo Bloess and Lee Looney sold wheat from their farm near Sedalia to the Sedalia Milling Co. at $1.75 a bushel.

Col. H. C. Demuth after a trip to numerous cities in Texas arrived home.

The Apollo Club at its annual meeting at the YMCA, elected W. M. Johns, president; W. B. Malone, vice-president; T. C. Marsh, secretary; W. E. Jakeman, treasurer; and C. H. Meyers, librarian.

The grocery store of J. E. Dempsey, 2117 East Broadway, was purchased by A. and Joseph Abrahamoff.

there—they fanned nationalism in their own satellites.

The events in Poland and Hungary were not identical. And for the time being their importance—in the sense of Russia losing her hold on the satellites—should not be overestimated.

In Poland the Polish Communist leadership decided—for reasons of its own—to proclaim its independence of Russia. One reason may have been to pacify the people's hatred of Russia and their discontent under communism.

But only yesterday the new Red Polish boss, Wladyslaw Gomulka, informed his countrymen Russian troops would remain in Poland as long as the West has military bases in West Germany.

That raises questions about the degree of independence achieved by the Polish Communist leaders. The one fact that is clear is that Poland is still under communism. It was different in Hungary, where the people revolted against both their Russian masters and their own Hungarian Communist regime. Russia used her troops to put down the riots and save the Hungarian Communist government.

The Hungarian uprising, no matter how temporary, is not a lost cause. Russian intrusion gives the Hungarians that much more reason to hate the Russians and communism with equal fervor, and revolt again.

But at least the events in Poland and Hungary—to look on the sunny side—may be the foot in the door for further breakaways from Russian control. The Russians certainly suffered a major disaster to this extent:

Their use of troops in Hungary makes a farce of their efforts to convince the neutral and underdeveloped countries that their intentions are unselfish or that their anticolonialism is real.

Dr. Jordan Says—

Bronchopneumonia Bad, May Linger for Long Time

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Mrs. O. has asked for a discussion of the different kinds of pneumonia, particularly that kind known as bronchopneumonia.

It is impossible to do this briefly, so I shall confine these remarks to bronchopneumonia. The two other most common varieties of pneumonia are lobar pneumonia and virus pneumonia.

Bronchopneumonia is not as clear-cut a disease as lobar pneumonia. Bronchopneumonia can be caused by any one of several germs. Irritating gases or other substances breathed in may also produce an inflamed condition of the bronchi and surrounding lung tissue. The dividing line between bronchitis (an infection of the breathing tubes) and bronchopneumonia (involvement of the lung tissue proper) is not sharp, and simple bronchitis can easily lead to pneumonia.

The smaller breathing passages leading to the lungs are called bronchi. As they pass down toward the lung tissue itself, they divide and become smaller and smaller. Germs can attack the lining of these tubes and cause inflammation. When the smaller bronchi become infected, the lung tissue surrounding them is also likely to be involved, and in such cases bronchopneumonia is said to be present.

Cough, with or without the bringing up of sputum, is usually present in bronchopneumonia. A little fever, but not as high as lobar pneumonia, is the rule. Pain in the chest, on the other hand, which is usually present in the early stages of lobar pneumonia, is often lacking in bronchopneumonia.

Bronchopneumonia, when left untreated, does not end with a sudden disappearance of symptoms and drop in temperature as lobar pneumonia does. It may hang on for a long time without definite change. The treatment of bronchopneumonia was once extremely difficult.

Now penicillin and its relatives and the sulfa drugs have brought much help. Since several kinds of germs may cause bronchopneumonia, the drugs given may not always bring about the hoped for results.

Bronchopneumonia is still a dangerous disease. The damage done to the lung tissue cannot always be repaired, and even in those who recover, symptoms may persist for many weeks. The maintenance of good general health and the avoidance of unnecessary exposure to infection are the only steps which can be taken to avoid the disease.

What They Say

Miss Hazel Palmer (President National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs—"Voting on the way to work will be the easiest, most efficient and time-saving for women who work. I urge all women who work to be 'Early Birds' at the polls on Election Day.")

Women workers, especially those in the clerical field, are often late to leave their offices at closing time. In addition, the woman worker who is also a homemaker must hurry home to family and housekeeping duties, after office hours. "By being Early Birds at the polls 21 million working women will avoid the 'last hour line-ups' in the precincts, and at the same time, Early Bird voters will make sure of getting to the polls long in advance of closing time."

Numbers Help

LAPEER, Mich. (AP)—Numbers are helping retarded children find their place in society.

It's done with the help of the abacus, ancient Oriental counting device, and the modern day adding machine.

Some 278 children at the Lapeer State Home and Training School use the abacus and adding machine in primary arithmetic classes. Officials say the program teaches retarded youngsters how to take care of themselves and their finances so that they can step into society.

The 'Little Woman' Speaks—

Candidates' Wives Now Take to Campaign Stump

By Esther Van Wagoner Tuffy
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The ideal kind of wife for a candidate is no longer "the little woman" who is seen but not heard to say more than "thank-you" for the inevitable purple orchid.

But today Nancy Williams, wife of Michigan's governor campaigning for a fifth term, is typical of what the old Pros now call "an asset." They are conscious more than two million more women are eligible to vote than men.

Probably not even "Soapy" Williams or Eleanor Roosevelt have equalled the pace that Nancy Williams set one Saturday.

She didn't give 17 speeches in a day, which is normal for the governor, but she conquered 17 or more obstacles while traveling back and forth from Michigan and Washington to make one speech here and get back to Detroit to appear the same night on the platform with her husband.

She was "bumped" off a Washington bound airliner in Cleveland by the Cleveland Browns football team. Then Capital Airlines put her on another plane to Pittsburgh hoping n(successfully) to connect with another flight. Finally Capital chartered a light plane to get the Governor's lady over the Alleghenies but not in time for a breakfast, press conference, or the food, but in time to speak at the Ladies' Day for Adlai.

And these modern wives use the direct method of campaigning. She does more than urge the girls in the bridge club to get out and vote hubby." Nancy Williams gives a hard hitting, fact-packed speech, especially tailored to convince women.

Washington got a sample of Nancy's opening sentence:

"Michigan people resent the Republican billboards slogan 'Eisenhower deserves Michigan's best' because it's not what's best for Eisenhower that's important but what's best for people of Michigan and the rest of the country."

Then she put a big market basket on the table and hauled out a "loaf of bread that cost 16 cents in 1952 and now costs 18 cents; a pound of coffee that jumped from 36 cents to $1.19; a box of 28 cent prunes which now cost 36 cents."

She had the attention of everyone including former President Harry Truman, whose wife never gave a campaign speech in her life. "The problem in Michigan is one of economies," she said. "Help was asked for farmer and auto worker. The Republican administration showed little interest and gave no help. Now the Republican candidates and GOP speakers are coming to Michigan in droves. But they didn't come when we needed them."

As for Republican prosperity, Nancy said "the Republicans had no difficulty finding empty stores in which to plaster signs because small business men had moved out unable to pay the rent."

She closed "with the happy news that 2,000 fewer Republicans had registered in the fashionable Grosse Pointe district." Very serious, she didn't smile or joke once.

It was her friend India Edwards, former vice-chairman of the National Democratic Committee, who added "that 280,000 auto workers were out of work and 2,000 a week were going off unemployment compensation and on relief, while General Motors' profits were upped 112 percent."

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

For many generations men sent their messages by courier on foot or on horseback. They sped up communications when they discovered the ways of electricity and of faster movement around the world.

Today air mail goes faster than does the mail which follows the sea lanes or the rail lines. Telegraph, cable and radiogram reach their destinations faster than do the messages carried in envelopes.

People have come to take these new means of message transmission for granted because words now reach their destination more rapidly than they used to do. What is more, men believe in the means, and in the results of twentieth century communication. They have faith in the means because of their experiences in the past.

Through the centuries man has communicated with God through the medium of prayer. Prayer has proven itself satisfactory for millions of people. They have come to believe in the means and in the results. They have faith in God and in prayer.

Yet in the face of the satisfaction of millions, a few will not even try to get their communications to the Supreme Being through the sample medium of prayer. All they need to do is to talk silently and without mental or emotional disturbance.

Let us learn to believe in communications through prayer as much as we believe in the human means of getting messages to human destinations.

Women Know the Signs When Men Settle Down

Men often fight against "settling down" the way tired kids fight a sleep.

When an NEA staff correspondent, Ward Cannel, recently interviewed Joe Louis he reported that when he asked the former heavyweight champion how it felt to be settling down, Joe Louis replied with an edge to his voice, "I'm not settling down."

But later on Joe Louis's wife gave the interviewer a different opinion. "He is settling down. Only he doesn't know it yet."

Men, you, too, are settling down.

Happy Workers 4-H Club Elects Officers

The Happy Workers 4-H Club had 30 members, 16 guests and four leaders present at its October meeting at the Pilot Grove Legion Hall.

Jim Brownfield presided over the business session. The following officers were elected: Joan Stoecklein, president; Kenny Day, vice-president; Claudette Taylor, secretary; Jack Schweitzer, treasurer; Gene Stoecklein and Connie Hutchison, song leaders; Phyllis Korte, reporter; Mrs. H. M. Brownfield, community leader, and Mrs. Paul Willenbring, assistant community leader.

The pledge to the flag and the 4-H pledge were led by Bill Shipman. Group singing was led by Jeanette Kempf with Joan Stoecklein accompanying.

Reports were given by Harold Vernon, electricity leader, Mrs. Earl Hayes, clothing leader, and Mrs. H. M. Brownfield gave a summary on community service.

Joan Stoecklein reported on the tour of the Boonville Water Plant. Dickie Jefferson announced the 4-H recognition banquet would be Nov. 7 at the Rod and Gun Club. An invitation to a Halloween party by the Willing Workers 4-H Club Oct. 27 was accepted.

The local 4-H contest for members was completed with individual points tallied. Jimmy Brownfield was first with 229 points; Joan Stoecklein, second, 220 points; and Ronnie Brownfield, third, 206 points. Cash prizes were awarded. Helen Deuschle and Gene and Ed Stoecklein were each awarded a silver dollar.

The program consisted of an illustrated talk by Joe Ed Stoecklein. Mrs. Earl Hayes showed slides of the Pilot Grove Fair Parade and scenes of the Ozarks, Californian and European square dancing. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Fritz Korte and Mrs. Harold Vernon.

Five guests, Connie Hutchison, Phyllis Day, Patty and Peggy Willenbring and Jeanette Brownfield became members.

The next meeting will be at the Legion Hall Nov. 9 at 7:30 p.m.

whether you know it or not, if you—

Have decided you'd rather stay home and watch sports on TV than buck a football crowd or go out to the ball park.

More and more often decide that the best place to spend a holiday or long weekend is right at home.

Have started taking an interest in a hobby like gardening, making furniture or taking over as chef at the outdoor barbecue pit.

Have started thinking more and more in terms of future financial security.

Keep remembering, at a gay party, what time you have to be up the next morning.

Are more amused than annoyed by your wife's attempts to make you over.

Find yourself thinking you'd like to go back to visit the home town you haven't seen in years.

Any woman knows that these are all signs that a man is settling down. She's aware that he's beginning to think more in terms of comfort than of adventure and beginning to feel it isn't necessary to act any younger than he feels.

Versailles PTA Has Talk by Sgt. Barbour

The Versailles PTA held its October meeting at the high school. Roger Meyer gave the devotional. Room count was won by Mrs. Moss McDonald's first grade. Mrs. Otto Washburn announced that seven tons of paper were collected in the paper drive.

Mrs. J. L. Walton introduced Sgt. John Barbour of the Safety Division of Troop F of the Highway Patrol who gave an interesting talk on "Safety for School Children."

Dick Simpson, principal of the high school, gave a short talk on goals for high school students and invited parents to visit the class rooms.

Has Hayride

The eighth grade pupils of the Green Ridge School enjoyed a hayride and wiener roast Oct. 11 at the Emmett Ruffin farm home, southwest of Green Ridge.

After the wiener roast, the children played games.

'Poverty Amidst Plenty'-- Socialist Candidate Says US Doesn't Have Prosperity

TYLER, Tex. (U.P.)—An appeal was being drafted today from a state court order that clamps the lid on all operations of the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People in Texas.

Late yesterday Dist. Judge Otis T. Dunagan granted the state's request that a temporary restraining

Former Ike Supporter Is Candidate

RICHMOND, Va. (U.P.)—T. Coleman Andrews, the Virginia Democrat who supported President Eisenhower in 1952 and became chief tax collector in the Republican administration, is wearing a new campaign button in his lapel.

It says: "I'm for me."

Politically it means what it says. Andrews is the presidential nominee on an independent States Rights-Tax Reform ticket. His running mate is Thomas H. Werdell of California, a former GOP congressman. They were formally handed the banner of the conservatives at a rally here Monday night at which about 20 states were represented.

Andrews, an accountant, has no illusions about any chance of victory. His ticket is on the ballot in only 14 states. What does he hope to accomplish?

"We hope to serve as a rallying point for conservative people," he said. "Our group has definitely launched a movement to lead to a realignment of the parties between conservatives and radicals."

Andrews sees the conservative coalition backing him not as a third party—but as a second party. He says now it's only a "tweedle - dum, tweedle - dee" choice between the national Democratic and Republican tickets since both have been engaged in what he calls a grasshopper race to the left. He is making his pitch mainly to those voters disenchant-ed by both major parties.

His candidacy could tip the scales in Virginia, which went for Eisenhower by 80,000 in 1952, and may be a factor in Florida.
